

"WHAT is this 'standard of living' that you talk about?" said a Hindu gentleman. "With you, it seems to be measured by eating. Because you eat more than we, you say your 'standard' is higher. But if we were to retort that we can support a higher spiritual life on less food, would that be 'higher' by another standard?"

Perhaps we are too material in our standards. Plain living and high thinking is a forgotten phrase of our ancestors. And yet, after all, the material test is not entirely unimportant. The most realistic things, Church, for instance, a church with a sufficient congregation can be made a business success.

ANYHOW, by our way of measuring it, the American standard of living is miraculously high. Nothing like it was ever dreamed of before, and it would be unthinkable anywhere else. We already have practically one automobile to each family, and the manufacturers are advertising reasons for buying a second car. We have nearly all the bathtubs in the world, and the plumbers advertising new equipment to fit a second bath room into even the smallest cottage.

We have four-fifths of the telephone and nearly all the radio receiving sets in the world. We travel more, take more vacations, eat and wear more and better, live in better houses, and do everything else material on the most staggering scale. "By the things of the belly—give thanks!"

TO the things of the belly follow also fortunately, some of the things of the spirit. We have more higher education than any other people. A few nations of Western Europe have surpassed us in eliminating outright illiteracy. We have intellectual backwaters where the general ignorance is shocking. But we have an enormously greater fraction of high school and college students than any other people ever had.

THIS is the direct product of material prosperity and democracy. We have more people who can afford it, and we have no class who think the best is too good for them. What is elsewhere an aristocratic privilege is here the common opportunity of all. Intellectually, at least, we have harvested our material prosperity.

WE have developed an interesting new "proletariat"—our colleagues. When the immigration law cut out steerage traffic, the companies looked about for a substitute. They found it in college students and professors.

By fixing up the former immigrant quarters a better way than taking a cheap vacation abroad, and our intellectuals at once made them popular and socially respectable. The automobile trade is finding the same outlet. After four-hand flivver has got so disreputable that no honest carrier would consent to go to work in it, the scrap heap is still far away.

Put Dignity in Dry Enforcement

RESPECT FOR LAW URGED BY ANDREWS

Assistant Secretary of U.S. Treasury Outlines His Policy in War on Rum WILL CHECK RESULTS

Public Should Know What Is Being Accomplished By Spending 11 Millions

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—"I am trying to put prohibition enforcement upon a dignified, business basis."

Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury, in an exclusive, authorized interview with the United Press, summed up in these words the work he has done since his appointment five months ago to the task of drying up the nation.

"We must get away from sentimentality and restore respect for federal law enforcement," he said. "No heroics in the attitude of this smiling, soft-spoken ruddy-faced retired army officer toward his job. No announcement of 'smashing drives,' no claims that the country already is 'dry.' Just quiet confidence."

Has Confidence in Self
"I think I can put it over," said General Andrews. As an example of how the new assistant secretary of the treasury is employing business methods in his work, he has appointed Walton A. Green, a retired army officer, a lawyer and Harvard graduate, to check up on results.

"The country is spending $11,000,000 a year on prohibition enforcement," he explained. "It is entitled to know what it is getting for the money."

"Not to check up would be as bad as for a business firm to spend millions of dollars in advertising and not endeavor to ascertain the effect on its sales."

It was in the old-fashioned parlor of a rambling Georgetown colonial house that the general, who had been putting in 20 hours a day at his new task, leaned back in his chair, sipped meditatively at some lemonade, and told for the first time the story of prohibition since he was sworn in last April and outlined his plans for the future.

AMERICA WILL NOT GIVE FRANCE SUCH EASY DEBT TERMS AS DID ENGLAND

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—France will receive no such debt settlement terms from the United States as she received from Great Britain, a high government official, associated with the American Debt Funding commission, predicted today.

The Anglo-French settlement will have no bearing on negotiations between the United States and France, due to start here next month, except in so far as the annual payments France undertakes to make, affect her capacity to pay, it was said.

America looks to France to pay the entire principal of her debt, aggregating $3,340,000,000, plus accrued interest to be funded, with interest regulated by her capacity to pay. In this she will receive treatment no different than that accorded any other nation.

It was specifically stated that the implied hope abroad that France might get terms from the United States proportionately as lenient as those secured from Great Britain was vain. Italy will follow the French

LONDON, Aug. 27.—French Finance Minister Caillaux went back to Paris today, apparently jubilant at the terms of the tentative debt settlement he had achieved in his conference with British Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill.

These terms, which in effect put up to America the question of giving France lenient treatment on her United States debt, will be submitted to a special meeting of the French cabinet. That France will accept, is deemed certain.

Any dissatisfaction in France over the arrangement to pay for 62 years an annuity of about $62,500,000 will probably be allayed by the fact that Caillaux received indications in the city—London's Wall street—that he could obtain British credits to tide the Bank of France over its momentary financial troubles.

COAL STRIKE ORDER READY TO BE ISSUED

(By United Press)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—Call for strike of 158,000 anthracite coal miners September 1 will be issued tonight, regardless of the possibilities of further negotiations between the miners and the mine owners, according to reports as the miners' scale committee went into session here this afternoon.

The committee was considering its program for keeping maintenance men in the mines in the event of a strike. The meeting was attended by President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers. It followed this morning's exchange of statements between the miners' officials and the mine operators, which carried a ray of hope that the strike might be averted. The strike ordered could be recalled after issuance, should a settlement be reached.

The efforts of the Wilkes-Barre group to bring together the miners and operators will be ineffective, persons close to the leaders of the miners believed this afternoon.

Word was awaited by the miners' leaders from the meeting of the Anthracite Board of Conciliation, also in session here, at which it was expected their maintenance men, employed in the anthracite fields, would be kept on duty in event of a suspension. The strike would be under protest, and the union would not interfere with settlement of the maintenance problem.

FOREST FIRE RAGING OVER LARGE AREA

200 Acres Burn in Afternoon on Ridge Between Trabuco and Hot Springs

Work of Battling Blaze Is Handicapped by Stiff Wind Blowing in Canyon

FIRE FIGHTERS from Riverside county and the southern part of Orange county were being rushed this afternoon to combat a forest fire reported raging over more than 200 acres on a ridge between about four miles from San Juan Hot Springs.

Although first reports of the fire were vague, it was understood from forest rangers at El Toro and in Trabuco canyon that fire was discovered at 12:30 p. m. today, and a half hour followed. That the fire is a serious one, is indicated by the fact that all rangers in the county have been ordered to the scene immediately.

Elsinore fire fighters were reported to be on their way to the blaze, while Orange County Fire and Game Warden W. E. Adkins, with Deputy George Harris, with rangers from El Toro, were reported on their way to the scene.

A stiff wind blowing through the canyons was reported as a serious handicap to the fighters. The location of the fire was said to be very close to the River side county line, 15 miles from El Toro. El Toro residents can see the smoke clearly, while the sky from here is grey with smoke.

It is believed that this fire is in a growth of brush in the same area that was burned over two years ago.

M'MILLAN SHIPS CAUGHT IN STORM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The "Peary" and the "Bowdoin," ships of the MacMillan expedition, headed south, are storm bound by a howling blizzard in the lee of the rocks off Saunders Island, Greenland. Ahead of them still lie the dangers of the icy Melville bay.

Radio dispatches from the expedition to the National Geographic society today told of bitter weather, far more different than that encountered on the northbound trip.

High seas, 50-mile winds and steadily falling snow hold the little ships tight to the protection of the shores.

U. S. May Deport Leaders of Tongs

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Another conference tomorrow between Chinese tong leaders and police, in an effort to bring about a nationwide peace compact between warring tongs, is scheduled as a result of a promise by Chinese yesterday to "try to obtain a cessation of hostilities. Should more killings occur, the government officials are planning to arrest the tong leaders for conspiracy and call upon federal authorities to deport them."

FIREMEN HURT IN CRASH

BANDIT'S SHOT PROVES FATAL TO MAIL CLERK

Without ever having regained consciousness, Elmer E. Campbell, 64, veteran railway express messenger and mail clerk, died in the Santa Ana Valley hospital at 12:35 this morning, from the wound he received from a gun in the hands of a bandit, who Monday night shot him and then robbed the express car of Santa Fe train No. 75, between Oceanside and Santa Ana.

With the announcement of Campbell's death, officers, who for three days have maintained an untiring search for the bandit, have thrust renewed energy into the case, and every possible clue which may lead to the whereabouts of the murderer and train robber is being followed.

No Clefts Found
Express company detectives returned to Santa Ana yesterday afternoon, to start again from the scene of the crime, and, after consulting with police officials and members of the sheriff's office, left for country south of Santa Ana. They admitted that they had found nothing so far that would lead immediately to the arrest of the murderer.

The coroner's inquest into Campbell's death will be conducted in the Smith and Tushill funeral parlors this afternoon, but Coroner Brown does not expect to be able to throw any new light on the mystery.

The body will be taken to Los Angeles late this afternoon and burial probably will be made there tomorrow, it was said.

Seek Identity of Woman
A report from Los Angeles today was to the effect that government agents were seeking the identity of a woman whom they believe may have had a hand in the robbery and murder, and that her arrest probably would follow. The woman is known to have been on intimate terms with an ex-convict, a man of pleasing personality and appearance, who officers believe was the "master" mind in the robbery, but who took no actual part.

Another report from San Diego told of the sighting of an automobile at Elsinore, bearing license 877-287, which is believed to have been the machine in which the bandits escaped. The car is registered to E. C. Lewis, 3914 South Main street, Los Angeles. The car has not been located.

DENTIST SLAYER OF RICH WIFE CHEATS GALLOWS BY STRANGULATION WITH WIRE

Believing Fate Against Him, Murderer Beats Hangman's Noose By Committing Suicide

SENSATIONAL TRIAL ADJOURNS

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—Dr. Thomas Y. Young, the "alchemist of death," cheated the gallows today by strangling himself in his cell. Confronting certain conviction and the gallows for the "scientific slaying" of his wealthy society wife, the pale little dentist brought a premature end to one of California's most sensational murder cases by wringing his own neck with a piece of copper coil.

Suicide Due To Boy's Death Demand

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—Dr. Thomas Y. Young, who decided last night to commit suicide because his stepson "Pat" Grogan Jr., was demanding his neck for the murder of the lad's mother. This was revealed to the United Press in conversations with the dentist's jailmates shortly after the suicide this morning.

"Doc played his last game of cards with us last night," said Harry Foster, a prisoner. "He talked repeatedly about the trial, and for the first time appeared very worried."

"I can't stand the way the kid has turned against me—I'm going to kill myself, that's what he told us last night."

"I asked him how he would do it. He told me that, if necessary, he would sprinkle water on the floor and put his finger in an open light socket."

"Young Pat" Grogan was to be the state's major witness against Dr. Young.

The presence of the radio antenna in Dr. Young's cell was a mystery to jailers. Defense Attorney John S. Cooper had tried to take a radio set and a coil of wire to the dentist in his cell a week ago, deputy sheriffs said. The attorney denied this, however, and an investigation was ordered to determine how Dr. Young had access to the suicide wire.

"That proves he was guilty," declared District Attorney Asa Keyes, who personally was prosecuting the case. "The state was saved the expense of a long trial and hanging."

Dr. Young's body was taken from the county jail, which has been his home for the last three months, after deputy sheriffs had made a thorough examination of the suicide. Relatives were officially notified of his death, and plans for the burial were to be announced later today.

Court Convened as Usual
Court in the Young case convened as usual at 10 a. m. The defendant's seat was empty. There were no spectators. Attorneys for both sides appeared and discussed informally the dramatic finale of the murder case.

After the preliminary formalities were over, the bailiff announced to the court that he "could not produce the defendant." District Attorney Asa Keyes asked for dismissal of the case. This was granted by Judge E. T. Hahn and court was declared adjourned.

Judge Hahn revealed an air of relief at the unexpected ending of the case. The jurist told the United Press, when the trial started, that he was opposed to capital punishment.

"But if the jury finds Dr. Young guilty, I will have no other duty before the law than to order him hanged," he said.

The sudden demand of "Pat" Grogan Jr., millionaire stepson of Dr. Young, that the slayer be hanged for the murder of the lad's mother, is believed to have contributed to the suicide.

"I can't stand to have the kid turn against me like that," Dr. Young told jailmates during a card game last night.

Chief Witness Against Young
The help to the Grogan millions was to be the ace witness against his stepfather.

The lad was the dentist's constant companion after the murder, until the "confession" and discovery of the body in a cement cistern in Beverly Glen.

After the confession, "Young Pat" turned against the dentist and became his chief accuser. "I'm glad it's over," the boy told the United Press this morning.

John S. Cooper, chief defense counsel, declared after the suicide that Dr. Young had never at any time admitted that he killed his wife.

"He was as insistent to me as to everyone else that Mrs. Young killed herself," the lawyer said. "I thought he was sincere."

His Story of Wife's Death
He said that, on the fatal night, his wife went to bed while he mixed a drink. He said she had threatened to commit suicide, and made him promise he would not tell anyone that she had taken her own life.

"The dentist said he went to sleep and when he awoke an hour later his wife was gone. A note

The WELL-DRESSED MAN
By BEAUNASH
Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

THE TURTLE-NECK SWEATER

Time was, and not so long ago, when one style supplanted another almost with the speed of the King's messenger. Men's fashions were an ever-shifting kaleidoscope which would appear only to disappear and, then, re-appear. You had just about made up your mind to wear a certain thing when—lo and behold!—another thing was declared to be "the thing." This made style difficult to follow sensibly.
No wonder that levelheaded men agreed with the old dictionary of Smelett—"ridiculous modes invented by ignorance and adopted by folly." To-day, style is no longer blown about and out, like dandelion fluff. Fashions last, because they are usually based upon a well-defined want or need.
Men tire of all modes eventually, of course, but not so quickly. Correct dress, rather than mere style, is the latter-day guide.
The turtle-neck sweater, as
sketch, is a familiar former fashion now revived among college men and young men who follow university ideas.
It is not a particularly good-looking style, because it fits clumsily around the neck, where the collar is folded down. However, it has that "athletic" appearance of brawn-and-biceps which excites many a fashion that, ordinarily, would not commend itself to the youngster of the period.
The turtle-neck sweater comes mostly in white and solid colors knitted up to tully with the collar. Such a garment is too warm and bulky to be really appropriate for the thick of summer, but what of that? It is so old that it seems new and, moreover, it conveys a truculent look of the practitioner of "the fine art of self-defense," and that settles the style with admirers of the pugilisticstylistic school of dress.
It is in autumn, not summer, that the turtle-neck sweater will come into its own. It is worn with trousers, rather than knickers, as it looks bulky and heavy. Under no circumstances should this style be adopted by older men or men inclined to flesh. It is presented to a young man's fashion suited to the slim-and-trim figure to which it gives needed breadth.

MUSTOL CALLED

ness sarcastically.
"No, I don't think so," replied the witness. "He kicked a good deal like a mule, but not quite that much."
McKibbin corroborated Oswald's testimony.
Prosecution witnesses had either denied that Mustol kicked at Goetze, or else said that they did not see him do it.
Mustol was in court, appearing as first witness for the prosecution. He walked with faltering step and appeared to be suffer-
eye, which was covered by a bandage. At one point during subsequent proceedings, while his physician, Dr. James Farrage, was on the stand, Mustol's eye was uncovered at the request of Defense
Attorney A. E. Koepsel.
Sight of Eye Gone
The sight of the eye is totally lost, Dr. Farrage testified. He said that it was altogether probable that the loss would be permanent, but that the condition of the eye has been such that a complete examination has been impossible. When he first saw it, about 15 minutes after the fight, the eyeball was protruding about an inch or an inch and a half from its normal position, the physician said. There was a fracture of the nasal bone, extending to the front, al sinus, and an abrasion of the skin on the left temple, he said.
The start of the quarrel between Goetze and Mustol was a subject of conflicting testimony on the part of prosecution witnesses. Who spoke the first words that set spark to the ill feeling said to have existed between the two men, and who started the actual combat, was not clearly agreed upon.
"Liar" and "Skunk"
Henry Le Blanc, brother-in-law of Mustol, said his recollection of the first words, after Mustol refused to fight, was that he said to Mr. and Mrs. Goetze talking to him, "Liar" and "skunk," hurled by Mustol at Goetze. Le Blanc had a very dim remembrance of what was said and how the blows were struck, except that Goetze, he said, came around the front of his car twice, to where Mustol was standing, and struck Mustol several blows in the eye. Mustol stepped forward to meet him, Le Blanc said.
Mrs. Le Blanc, however, had a vivid recollection of the occurrence. She said that Mrs. Mustol first asked, "What is going on?"
Other words were exchanged and Goetze called Mustol a "black dog." Mustol later called Goetze a liar, she said, when Goetze remarked that the Mustols had told him Mrs. Le Blanc was a love fiend and that her husband was an automobile thief, wanted in San Bernardino.
Woman Thrown to Pavement
Mrs. Le Blanc described the two clashes between the two men, and how Mrs. Mustol, seizing Goetze's upraised arm, was shaken off and thrown flat on the pavement, close to the wheels of passing traffic.
Her voice was touched with scorn as she told of Mustol lifting his hands at Goetze's first blow and crying "Mamma."
"He isn't much of a fighter," she said.
The defense sprang a surprise by calling Mrs. Mustol as a defense witness. She gave a spirited account of the affray, which deviated somewhat from the previous accounts, one in particular being that Goetze passed around the rear of the car to attack Mustol, instead of the front of the car, as other witnesses stated. Her husband did not move to meet Goetze, she declared.

admitted he has received thousands of applications for jobs.
Several of the new administrators were appointed provisionally.
"We will see if we have the right men," the general said.
"Those in charge of the larger cities are the ones whose appoint-

Stopping Booze at Source
Next to catching and prosecuting the big bootlegger, comes the question of stopping the liquor at the source.
"The amount of real liquor being smuggled into the United States is relatively small," said Andrews, referring to the "colossal gullibility" of men who believe "the lies their bootleggers tell them."
The general went to El Paso in May and reached an agreement with Mexican officials regarding border control. On August 22, he came back to an understanding with Canadian officials and made arrangements for giving effect to an agreement about the northern border which was reached last year. Other treaties impend.
The coast guard has been strengthened.
"We will pay particular attention to the 'second line of defense' at the customs," Andrews said.
"Then there are the companies holding permits to withdraw alcohol for industrial purposes. We will examine these. We will inquire as to just how much alcohol they need and how it is used.
If any of it is found its way to bootleggers we will revoke the permits in question."
On Withdrawal Permits
Andrews has arranged that withdrawal permits shall come under the jurisdiction of those responsible for prohibition enforcement.
"Each regional administrator will be responsible for checking this illicit production in his district. But more especially, each will seek to prevent the transportation of liquor. That is what we must aim at first."
"It is a business proposition.
It must be accomplished slowly.
I have tried to emphasize to the administration that production must be carried out in a dignified way, calculated to restore public respect."
"I believe we will succeed in making the country dry."

TICKETS FOR BAND
DANCE SELL FAST

Tickets were selling fast today for the big "Save the Band" benefit dance, to be given tonight in the Rendezvous ballroom, Balboa.
It was announced today by Fred
M. Medbery, chairman of the general committee on arrangements.
For the last two days decorators and artisans have been working overtime transforming the spacious ballroom into a veritable fairland with colorful backgrounds.
Chairman Medbery was loud in his praise of the splendid co-operation given by the people of Newport Beach and Balboa, including the city trustees and City Marshal
J. A. Porter.
The dances will be given under the auspices of the Santa Ana service clubs and its two chambers of commerce, with the active support of prominent society folk.

Delay Practice
For Sea Flight

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—
Shifting the base of the new engine in the Giant PB-1, Boeing session, which will be one of three planes, the expected test flight of the craft today was postponed to tomorrow.

After the new 800-horsepower motor had been placed, it was found that it did not deliver maximum power, so rearrangement was made. The two PN-9 planes probably also will be tested Friday in the air.
The PB-1 has two 800-horsepower motors, the new one in front being the most powerful ever installed in a plane. It is of the "pull" type, while the rear motor is a "pusher."
The forward motor gives enough power for a selected landing in case the rear one cuts out during the flight.

An Old English Beauty Recipe "Howard's Buttermilk Cream"

Says It's Nothing More Than Old Fashioned Ordinary Buttermilk in the Form of a Wonderful Cream. Is Guaranteed by All Good Drug and Department Stores

Big Demand Amazes Druggists

The first application of Howard's Buttermilk Cream will astonish you. It creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that while it turns the dull, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough hands soft and smooth, yet there is not a single sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows' feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream.

To prove this to your complete satisfaction, get a small quantity today at your favorite toilet goods counter with the understanding that they will freely return the purchase money should you be dissatisfied. At all druggists.

TAX PROBLEMS ARE AHEAD AT CHAMBER MEET

Committee reports, dealing with California tax problems, the county fair industrial exhibit, parks and playgrounds and sundry matters, came before the directors at the chamber of commerce meeting held this morning.

William H. Spurgeon Jr., first vice president of the chamber, presided over the meeting.

Following some discussion on the California tax problems, it was moved that the matter be brought to the attention of the Associated Chambers of Commerce as well as to other organizations interested in the development of California and promotion of tourist travel.

It also was suggested that, if found advisable, proper representation be made to the state legislature with a view to relief.

Exhibit Arrangements Progress

Secretary A. L. Olinger reported that with the financial aid of the county supervisors, arrangements for holding an industrial exhibit at the coming county fair are progressing satisfactorily.

Progress in securing suitable sites for parks and playgrounds in the city was reported by Frank C. Pope, chairman of a special committee. He stated that as a result of negotiations the owners of the Melwood and the Adams properties in the southeast section of the city are willing to take a considerable reduction in the price of their holdings, the original offer of which was $105,000.

Resolution Is Adopted

The following resolution, introduced by Bruce Switzer, was adopted by the directors.

"Whereas, California is celebrating her seventy-fifth anniversary this year, the year being known as California's Festival Year, and

"Whereas, the only official celebration in Orange county is to be held in the community of Orange on Admission day, September 9, said celebration to be known as the Diamond Jubilee of Orange, and

"Whereas, the city of Santa Ana wishes to co-operate with its sister city, Orange, in making the Jubilee a success,

"Therefore be it resolved: That the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce does hereby pledge its cooperation to the city of Orange in this event, and that we respectfully request and urge our members and the entire citizenry of Santa Ana to attend this celebration, and that a copy of this resolution be furnished the Santa Ana Register for publication."

LOS ANGELES The Once Over

DISCUSS PLANS FOR EXTENSION OF STATE PARKS

Plans for the extension of the California state park system so that it will make some provision for Southern California are now being elaborated by the California Development association, co-operating with other agencies, it was said yesterday by R. H. Torrey of New York city, former secretary of the state park commission of New York and new field secretary of the National Conference of State Parks. Mr. Torrey is in Los Angeles making a survey of the state park division for the organization, and leaves today for Nevada where he will visit most of the proposed state park sites there as a member of a party conducted by Gov. Scruggs. A conference of all the organizations in California interested in state park development will be conducted this winter, Mr. Torrey said, with a view to drawing a state park measure which will meet the objections of Gov. Richardson to the bill passed at the last session.

AMBASSADOR'S FUNERAL SHIP ARRIVES

Edgar A. Bancroft's funeral ship, the Japanese warship Tama, having completed its mission and deposited the body of the late American ambassador to Japan in San Francisco, will arrive in Los Angeles Harbor this afternoon. The Tama, which was commissioned by the Japanese government to carry the ambassador's body to the United States, will remain in the harbor until Monday, when it will depart for San Francisco to take part in the "Diamond Jubilee" celebration. The officers of the Tama will be entertained Thursday evening by the Operatic club at a banquet given by the chamber of commerce for M. Zumbo, editor of the Herald of Asia, and the captain of the Tama. Friday noon the officers have been invited to the City Club, where Zumbo will speak by the International Relations Councils. The Japanese consul has arranged a banquet at the Elite for the officers on Saturday night.

STAMPS AND MONEY EXCHANGED AT PHILATELIST MEET

Many stamps and no small sums of money changed hands between stamp collectors who are attending the fourth annual convention of the American Philatelist Society at the Hotel Biltmore. The top prize for one stamp was reported to be $250. The prize which brought the price was an error copy of the 24-cent United States stamp of 1869, printed in two colors. The value of the stamp rests with the two-color printing. Only a few were made. The program started with a trip to Catalina Island. On the voyage both ways the time was devoted to business, but on the island the visitors were free to amuse themselves.

S. A. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO TAKE CHARGE OF SANTA BARBARA RELIEF CAMPAIGN

Directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce this morning, at their regular meeting, voted to take full charge of the Santa Barbara relief fund campaign. Pending the appointment of a chairman of the general campaign committee, the president of the chamber was authorized to make necessary committee appointments and to provide the necessary machinery, including the hire of clerical help and other services.

The action of the chamber was taken at the request of Col. S. H. Finley, member of the board of supervisors, who appeared before the directors.

Board Holds Conference

He said that at a conference, held yesterday afternoon in the board rooms of the supervisors, it was decided that the chamber of commerce was logically the organization that should handle the campaign. He added that there was some discussion of the advisability of including the quota in the community chest. It was pointed out, however, that the community chest is designed to take care of the needs of regular civic agencies, and has no fund by which an emergency such as this can be met. The money pledged for the community chest will not be available until next year, and Santa Barbara needs the money at once. He made it clear that there is nothing in the community chest agreement to prevent an independent drive for funds in case of a catastrophe.

Representative Gathering

Those attending this conference in the supervisors' room were Supervisor S. H. Finley, who presided; A. L. Olinger, secretary of the chamber of commerce; the Rev. W. H. McPeak, representing the Ministerial association; W. H. Spurgeon Jr., president of the community chest; W. C. Jerome and T. E. Stephenson, Rotary club; Mrs. Pay Spangler, Mrs. J. E. Snow, P. T. A.; O. H. Egge, Lion club; Stanley Clem, Junior Chamber of Commerce; Miss Martha Whitson, Business Women's club; Emer Schaniel, American Legion; Mrs. S. W. Stanley, Ebelle club; H. W. Lewis, Y. M. C. A.; Hugh Lowe, Merchants and Manufacturers association.

Following are the quotas for supervisorial districts, according to registration:

First, (Santa Ana), $6817; second, (which includes Huntington Beach and Garden Grove), $3458; third, (north end of county), $8730; fourth, (Orange, Olive, El Modena), $3002; fifth, (Tustin, Newport, San Juan Capistrano), $2983.

To raise the Santa Ana quota, it was suggested that the individual assessment method employed in the community chest drive be employed and that each citizen in the community be called upon for a subscription.

Warn Owners of Canine Pets To Purchase Tags

Final warning to owners of dogs in the city to purchase their 1925 dog licenses, was made today by J. A. Randel, city poundmaster, who stated that beginning immediately he would round up all dogs without licenses.

With half of the year passed scores of owners have neglected to purchase licenses for their pets, according to Randel, who said today that he would take drastic measures to round up all dogs on which license fees have not been paid. Licenses can be obtained from Randel, or at the sergeant's desk at the city police station.

Heavyweights Hold Picnic In Park

The third annual picnic of the "heaviest" family in California, at least in name, was being held today in Orange County park, where the Ton clan gathered.

The picnic party, which includes approximately half a hundred relatives of the original Tons, is the Pacific coast branch of the Ton association, a national organization, with headquarters in an eastern state.

The heaviest member of the coast branch is said to tip the scales at near the 300 pound mark, while the youngest and lightest of a family leaning toward the superlative both in nomenclature and avoirdupois, is declared to be only a third as heavy as the heaviest member.

Thomas Bagshaw, president of the association, was to act as master of ceremonies today. The Ton quartet will sing.

PREPARING FOR GREAT CIRCUS IN SANTA ANA

Hurrah! Hurrah Again!

A real five-ring circus is coming to Santa Ana and it's the first and only one in the entire solar system!

Such is the extraordinary announcement of the contracting agent of the great Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey combined circus, which will be here Thursday, September 17, to exhibit both afternoon and night.

The first of the three publicity cars to proclaim the wonders of the "Greatest Show on Earth" arrived this morning with 50 advertising men, in charge of Col. George Goodhart. These harbingers of the amusement colossus are colorfully announcing the forthcoming event for miles around today.

Gigantic Entertainment

The mammoth program presented by the circus this season is said to exceed in newness and extent anything in gigantic entertainment ever witnessed.

With the addition, last winter, of enough performing horses to bring the "Big Show" total to 350, the problem presented to the Ringling Brothers was how to handle five troops of them in a single display. The limits of the show grounds in many cities forbade lengthening the main tent. None of the stages could be spared. All were needed for the big collective groups of human actors. Then somebody suggested that, though the "big top" paraphernalia could not be cut down nor yet "spread out" there was no reason why it should not be "built higher." That suggestion was worked out and now, in addition to the three dirt-floored rings, two additional rings have been constructed to fit over the tops of the steel structured stages.

Is Great Innovation

This is the greatest innovation since the Ringling Brothers started their super-circus policy by combining their own with the Barnum and Bailey circus. It has opened the way, not only for training horse numbers in acts of five, but for other big new displays.

Though there are more than 800 men and women aren't stars now presented, only a few of the most brilliant appear singly. Instead they are presented in imposing ensemble. These groups extend over the entire length of the huge main tent—seven, nine, as many as 11 troupes in action at one time. In keeping with this plan of giving the spectators at the ends of the tent just as much "show" as is enjoyed by those nearer the center, five herds of elephants are now presented instead of three. One hundred clowns distribute their caperings in all parts of the "big top."

Horses In Ballet

The hippodrome track is utilized more than ever before. At one time it is completely ridden by 150 trained horses, each ridden by an expert, in an amazing ballet and "fete of the garlands." Again it is filled with glittering pageants, with splendid high-school horses or remarkable thoroughbreds that give thrilling exhibitions of lofty hurdling and hazardous high jumps.

Placentia People Picnic at Park

PLACENTIA, Aug. 27.—Nearly 2000 persons attended the community picnic held in Orange County park yesterday under the auspices of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce.

Congressman Phil D. Swing and Assemblyman S. C. Hartman were the speakers of the day. Music was furnished by a special orchestra. Frank Dowling was the toastmaster.

A special committee, composed of William Bielefeld, Louis Jacobson, S. C. Harmony, John Tuffree, Peter Foss, John Wallace and S. C. Halber were in charge of the picnic. More than 40 gallons of ice cream, with coffee and real cream to go with it, were furnished by the chamber of commerce. Prizes were awarded to the winners of various athletic contests.

Suffered Two Years. Relieved by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Marshalltown, Iowa.—"At the time I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a telephone operator and had been suffering for two years with bearing-down pains and cramps in my legs so I could scarcely walk. At times I could not do any kind of work on account of my trouble. My mother was taking the medicine for the change of life and she thought it would help me and it did. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills. I recommend your medicines to my friends and I will answer all letters asking about them."—Mrs. P. E. EVERTS, Box 149, Marshalltown, Ia.

Big Bear Lake Boats of Novel Amphitheater

Newest of America's outdoor amphitheaters is the theater of the stars which has lately been established at Fawnskin, near Big Bear Lake, California. The amphitheater is under the direction of Arthur Farwell, the composer. It is devoted to the experimental development of the arts of music and drama and of the growing art of light. In the language of its announcement, "It takes these arts at a single stroke out of their usual and conventional environment, links them with heroic and primitive nature, brings back their vanishing mance and wonder, and sends them as newborn and charged with a new message of release and beauty to mankind."

For the present summer it has inaugurated a series of Saturday evening concerts by excellent artists and musical organizations under conditions of combined beauty of nature and art. The theater is set among boulders and lofty evergreens in a canyon upon the heights of a mountain range. It is lit below by camp fires and above not only by the stars but by lights of various hues—the colors changing in keeping with the moods of the music.

Chapman Home Is Scene of Friendly Gathering Wednesday

Mrs. A. E. Chapman entertained a number of friends informally at her home yesterday afternoon, the majority of her guests being former residents of Kansas, where the Chapmans resided before coming to Santa Ana.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. Hutto, recently of Justice City, Kas., but who are now living temporarily in Hollywood. They expect to locate soon in Santa Ana, making this city their future home. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles McComas, Venice, Tex.; Mrs. Garnett Church and two little daughters, of Fort Worth, Tex.; Mrs. Finis McComas Jr., Glendale, and Mesdames Harriet Chapman and Ella Anderson, of Santa Ana. Mr. and Mrs. Hutto will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Chapman over the week-end and the Chapmans are planning to entertain in their honor with a picnic soon.

Mission Worker Is Honored with Party

More than 100 persons attended the farewell reception given last evening at the La Brea Day Saint's chapel, in compliment to Miss Jeppson, who will leave Santa Ana shortly.

Miss Jeppson has been a diligent and faithful worker in the California mission for the last 27 months. Entertainment at the affair last evening consisted of songs, readings and games, followed by the serving of refreshments.

Twice Wedded To Same Man; Wife Wants Divorce

Charging that her husband once threatened to kill her, while they were living at Long Beach, in 1922, Mrs. Anna M. Smith, who married her husband twice, today asked divorce from J. Hunter Smith Jr. Cruelty and desertion were alleged as grounds for her complaint, which was filed in superior court through Attorney Kenneth H. Burns, of Santa Ana. The second and final separation of Mr. and Mrs. Smith took place April 13, 1923, following a heated quarrel between the couple. Details of their first separation were not made known in the divorce papers.

The Smiths were married the first time in Santa Ana, August 4, 1915, and were later divorced. They remarried at Hanford, Aug. 12, 1922, and moved from there to Long Beach. Their second voyage on the sea of matrimony was brief, lasting but nine months.

Mrs. Smith asks custody of their three children.

State Bar Body Will Meet Soon In Tahoe Tavern

Notice has been received of the 16th annual session of the State Bar association to convene in Tahoe Tavern, Thursday, September 3. An interesting program will include the address by President McNoble, of Stockton, while the annual address will be delivered by Orin Kipp McMurray.

The Diamond Jubilee evening will portray many curious incidents of early California legal procedure and should be interesting and instructive. The judicial section will devote one session to an effort to secure uniformity and prevent delays in procedure.

A large attendance is expected including 100 from the south. Those planning to attend from Orange county include Assistant District Attorney C. N. Mozley, William L. Walters, of Fullerton, and George Varnum of Anaheim.

Kiddies Make Merry Celebrating Birthday Party on Lawn

A group of happy youngsters gathered one afternoon this week in the G. H. Christian home, 818 South Birch street, to help celebrate the fourth birthday of Master Charles Christian. The kiddies arrived early in the afternoon and enjoyed several hours of play on the lawn of the Christian home.

When the little guests were beginning to tire of their play, Mrs. Christian called them together. Tables were arranged on the lawn and the children were served with large helpings of ice cream, cake and candy. The little host received many pretty gifts from his friends. Those present were Annabelle Lute, Mildred and Betty Van Slyke, Elroy Shields, Virginia and Gwendolyn Sweetman, Bobbie and Mary Jean Warren, Bobby Spencer, Boyd and Jack Leary, Betty Frank and Esther Bell Christian. Mrs. Charles Bowman Entertains with Pretty Bridge Party

Mrs. Charles O. Arts, Tustin, won high honors yesterday afternoon at the prettily arranged bridge luncheon given by Mrs. Charles Bowman, in her home in Tustin, where the members of a local bridge club and a few invited guests were entertained.

Mrs. Bowman chose gorgeous dahlias and gardens in pastel shades from her garden as the home decorations, while on the dining room table a large cut glass bowl of nuts and candied fruit formed the centerpiece.

The guests assembled shortly after 2 o'clock and enjoyed the afternoon playing bridge. Others winning awards were Mrs. Frank Hammett, who had second high score, and Mrs. Addie Low, who won the consolation prize.

Following the presentation of prizes, the hostess served a delicious three-course luncheon to the guests, who were seated at the bridge tables.

Invited guests were Mrs. Charles O. Arts, Mrs. Byron Johnson, Mrs. Jess Goodman and Mrs. J. W. Rice, while club members present were Mesdames Morris Cain, Cora B. Cavins, Edward Walker, W. Denver Doll, Otto Han, A. E. Watson, Addie Low, Hugh Plumb, Good Adams, Richard Burkett, Frank Hammett and W. F. Rencher.

Mrs. Frank Cook Entertains for Mother With Birthday Party

Mrs. Frank Cook entertained yesterday afternoon at a delightful birthday party, honoring her mother, Mrs. Gladys Cook Williamson, who celebrated the anniversary of her birth.

The Cook home was made attractive and fragrant for the occasion by the use of summer flowers placed in the living rooms. Games comprised the chief means of entertainment, and were followed with refreshments of ice cream and cake. The guest list included close relatives of the honoree.

The guest list included Mrs. Margaret Howard, Anaheim; Mrs. Margaret Howard, Anaheim; Mrs. Susan Rutherford, Balboa Beach; Mrs. L. F. Moulton, El Toro, and Mesdames J. E. Paul, Della Compau, Davis, F. E. Farnsworth, and Thos. Winbiger, Santa Ana.

Two Are Cremated Under Burning Car

MARYSVILLE, Calif., Aug. 27.—Richard J. Rabtao, of Sacramento, and Bert Van Loon, of Auburn, traveling salesmen, were cremated beneath their automobile, when it leaped through a guard rail on a highway two miles west of Chico and fell 25 feet, the gasoline tank exploding and setting fire to the car.

Van Loon was instantly killed by the wreck. Rabtao's calls attracted nearby, but they were unable to extricate him alive. The charred bones of the two men were recovered later, when help had been summoned from Chico.

Rabtao traveled for Albers Brothers Milling company, of Sacramento, and Van Loon for the Globe Grain and Milling company, of Auburn.

LOST WORLD CONTEST OPENS ON WEIGHT OF ALLOSAURUS

A wedding of unusual interest to Santa Ana society because of its unexpectedness and because the event united the son and daughter of well known pioneers of Southern California, was that of Frank Seidel, son of the late Mrs. Anna Seidel, and Miss Juanita Daguerre, daughter of Mrs. M. E. Daguerre, of El Toro, which took place yesterday morning in the Riverside.

The ceremony was read by Father Keating in his Riverside parsonage, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the couple. The bride wore a frock of cocoa crepe de chine and a large picture hat, while her sister, Miss Jo Daguerre, who acted as bridesmaid, was gowned in a China blue creation with a hat of the same color. Sid Smithwick, brother-in-law of the groom, attended Miss Daguerre.

The only ornament worn by the bride beside her engagement ring was a beautiful diamond bar pin, the gift of the groom.

Following the exchanging of nuptial vows, the wedding party enjoyed a luncheon served in the patio of the Riverside Mission Inn. Covers were laid for Mrs. M. E. Daguerre and the Misses Jo and Grace, mother and sisters of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Sid Smithwick and Mr. and Mrs. Seidel.

HEROES OF FAR NORTH TELL PERILS OF ICE

NOME, Alaska, Aug. 27.—The six men of the crew of the Amundsen ship Maud, which for three years drifted in the ice parts of the arctic, today continued the heroes of the far north.

While the Maud, clean and shining under a fresh coat of paint, lay at anchor in the harbor, the crew was told by citizens of Nome and related to the United Press additional experiences of the adventure just ended.

During the months of drifting, in which an unsuccessful effort was made to float across the north pole, members of the crew flew kites to obtain the wind pressure and direction and chopped holes in the ice each day to get the depth of the water and direction of the current.

This information was carefully compiled and is expected to prove a valuable contribution to arctic data.

Turns At Feeding Dogs

The men, and even Capt. C. Westing personally, took turns feeding the dogs and pigeons and performing the odd tasks about the monotony of idleness.

Spare time was spent in carving, embroidering and fancy rope work. Some of the finest imaginable pieces of fancywork were brought back by the rugged explorers.

The whole crew worked on a miniature model launch with an internal boiler and engine run by steam. The model was finished this year, before the vessel was released from the Kolyma river ice floes, and was christened the "Paul," after a sweetheart of Aviator O. Dahl, in Norway.

Upon arrival here, the miniature craft was given to the 3-year-old son of Thomas A. Rose, officer of the U. S. coast guard.

Feast On Fresh Vegetables

All members of the crew are eating their fill of fresh vegetables, reading all the newspapers available, and laying plans for their return home.

Radio Operator Olonkit has been on the Maud eight years, having joined the ship in the Kara sea when the vessel left Norway on its first unsuccessful drift. He is a Russian and was a radio operator at a Kara sea station when he joined the Maud. Olonkit's mother and younger brother are in Norway, but his aged father and two sisters are in Russia.

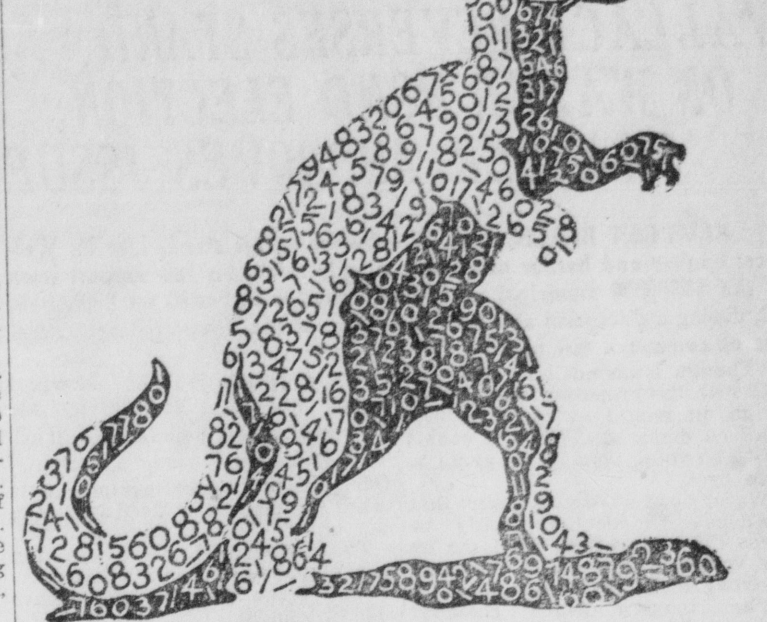

"My first aim will be to get my family together in Norway, so we can live in peace," Olonkit said.

Newspaper Printed On Ship

Olonkit published a newspaper aboard the Maud from bits of news he picked out of the air. Two years ago he heard a message that the father of Dr. Harald Sverdrup, scientist on the Maud, a noted churchman in Norway, had died.

The radio operator bore the news to Sverdrup and the physician bound him to secrecy, fearing other members of the crew might be depressed if they knew.

Riverside Wedding Unites Pioneer Families Of Southern California

The dinosaur pictured above, while bigger than four or five elephants, was small compared to some of the others existing in the "Lost World." The figures give its total weight when added. A fierce meat-eater was this monster allosaurus. He could run with the speed of a race horse, was 20 feet tall and required a ton of meat a day for food. His terrible claws were a foot in length, and he could fight.

Now then, how much does he weigh? The Daily Register wants to know. The figures with which he is covered tell.

Here is fun for everybody. The numbers are all single digits, that is they number from one to nine only. The total of all the numbers gives the weight of the animal.

Simple isn't it? More fun than cross-word puzzles? All you have to do is to list all the numbers and then add them—and there you are—the weight of the allosaurus in pounds.

Here Are the Prizes
Each day for 3 days the Daily Register will give two free tickets for each correct weight sent in which will enable the winner to see these prehistoric animals in their bit in Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's stupendous story, "The Lost World," coming to the West End theater for one week, beginning Saturday.

A cash prize of $5 will be awarded for the best correct set of weights. In case of a tie nearest, legibility and cleverness will determine the victor.

Here Are Simple Rules

Figure out the weight and write it neatly on one side of the paper you use. Tell the name of the animal whose weight you are giving and tell in not more than 25 words how you arrived at the answer.

Everybody is eligible to enter but employees of the Daily Register and the West End theater. Send your answers to the Contest editor of the Daily Register. Don't forget to include your name and address.

The secret was kept until the Maud neared Nome. Chief Officer Carl Hanson still has a lust for the arctic. "I expect to stop in the United States," Hanson said. "After a while, I want to get a vessel and come back north to hunt polar bears and do some trapping."

Aviator Dahl plans to cross the Andes, in South America, taking pictures. Dahl it was who kept the Maud's calendar. Beneath each date he drew a cartoon of some event of the day. The Curtis plane aboard, which was nearly wrecked in Dahl's one attempt to get into the air, is boxed and will

NEWS from ORANGE COUNTY

POLICEMEN ARE DIRECTED TO PURCHASE CARS

FULLERTON, Aug. 27.—The first city in Orange county to take the step, the Fullerton board of trustees today had ordered the abandoned use of motorcycles by traffic officers. In place of the motorcycle officers, the entire police force is to be motorized. The trustees voted approval of the plan as worked out by Chief of Police O. W. Wilson.

Each member of the force will own and operate his own car, which must be of a type under general specifications of "Dodge class or better." The sum of $45 per month will be allowed for the use of seven of the cars and the eighth car which will be provided by the desk sergeant, will receive a $30 maintenance allowance as its mileage will be less than that of the regular patrolmen.

Allow 80 Gallons of Gas
In addition to this allowance, a maximum of 80 gallons of gasoline per month for each car will be allotted and oil provided. Upkeep will be left to the individual owners with the requirement that their cars be kept in good operating condition at all times.

The two cars now operated by the police department and owned by the city, will be sold as will the two motorcycles used by the two traffic officers, who will now operate in automobiles. This plan will be effective as soon as it can be put in operation, it was said last night and Chief Wilson expects to have his force completely and satisfactorily equipped and in action under the new plan by September.

Replacing of the motorcycles of the traffic officers with automobiles has been under consideration for some time, attracting especial interest following the accidents in which both motor policemen were seriously injured a few weeks ago.

Saves Money, Aids Efficiency
It was pointed out by Wilson that by each member of the department owning and operating his own car, a system which has been successfully followed in Berkeley and other cities of the state, but which is new to Southern California, a saving in the cost of motorizing the department will be effected with greatly increased efficiency.

Very little increase in the proposed annual budget for the police department operation this year over last is noted, it was said last year, with approximately $27,000 set aside for that purpose.

Barnyard Golfers Demand More Room for Pastime

FULLERTON, Aug. 27.—Bewhiskered devotees of "barnyard golf" are developing the popular pastime so rapidly in Fullerton that they are in need of expansion in facilities for the game, according to a report made to the city council here.

No definite action was taken on the matter of enlarging the present grounds for horse-shoe pitching in the Santa Fe park, but it is anticipated that the "Golfers" will have a larger playground in the near future.

HIGH CHURCH OFFICIAL IS CALIF. VISITOR

FULLERTON, Aug. 27.—Bishop Johan Lunde, highest man of that rank in the church of Norway, was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Knute B. Norwing, of Nicholas avenue yesterday. Bishop Lunde was sent to America by the King of Norway with a greeting to the Norwegian people of America which was read at the Northern Centennial celebration which was held in St. Paul last June.

Bishop Lunde has been traveling in the northern and western sections of the country since that date. He spoke at the Norwegian Lutheran church in Los Angeles last night, and left for San Francisco today, where he will take a steamer for Norway.

SEEK HOLME AS DIRECTOR OF OUTDOOR PLAYS

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Aug. 27.—Nation wide interest attracted to the mission pageant of San Juan Capistrano, called the "Epic Drama of California History," scheduled for concluding performances at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon and the afternoons of September 6 and 7, has resulted in Carmel Holme, author and director of the historic spectacle, being besieged with applications to stage similar outdoor plays.

Immediately after the concluding presentation of the Capistrano pageant, Holme will leave for Yellowstone national park to confer with Superintendent Horace M. Albright relative to writing and staging a pageant play there, based on the Indian legends of the region.

Thence he will visit Casa Grande national monument in Arizona on a similar mission. He will return to Southern California to open the Palm Springs pageant, "Tahquitz," on November 4.

Preparations are being made to accommodate record crowds for the remaining performances of the San Juan pageant play. Since the announcement was made that the schedule would not be extended, George Gerwing, business manager, reports that advance reservations are being made in numbers.

At today's performance, Ross Corbin, well known actor who has recently returned from a tour with his own company, will assume the role of the prologue expositor, formerly taken by Holme. Karyl Marker, Pot Bolders player, will be seen as the pirate captain in the concluding performances.

The historic play, which has had Sunday presentations since June 14, has been a mecca for thousands of patriotic Californians, as the history and customs of the early days of the Golden state are portrayed true to fact in the outdoor spectacle. The concluding performance on the afternoon of September 7 will be a gala occasion with special festivities in connection with the fiestas featuring the play.

Court-Martial for 2 Sleepy Marines

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 27.—The two marines who were reported to have gone to sleep at their posts while guarding President Coolidge at the summer White House will be tried by a summary court-martial for neglect of duty, Capt. Adolphus Andrews, the president's naval aide, announced. The maximum penalty can be dishonorable discharge from the service.

CHARGED WITH CURSING.
FRESNO, Aug. 27.—Singing and cursing, which disturbed neighbors, was the charge upon which Mrs. Margaret Schwab was given 150 days' suspended sentence by Judge James G. Crichton, here.

Contract for the work was again awarded to Steele Finley, of Santa Ana, at a slightly higher cost than in the first agreement. Finley explained to the councilmen that this added cost was due to construction of a retaining wall, at a cost of $900.

Finley's bid on the paving was 1245 cents per square foot, with curbing at 60 cents per linear foot, and two catch basins and drains listed at $65 and $46.50 each.

WALLACE REVERSES STAND ON WATER BOND ELECTION; CHAMBER APPROVES ISSUE

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 27.—Switching his stand, Lew H. Wallace, banker and harbor proponent, openly threw his full support back of the $350,000 municipal water bond issue, to be voted on September 10, during a discussion at a special meeting of the Newport Beach chamber of commerce last night.

"Though I am not entirely satisfied with the proposed issue, I wish to go on record as favoring it," Wallace declared. "When it comes up to be voted upon, I am going to vote 'yes.'"

Water bond advocates assert that Wallace's support practically assures the approval of the issue by the voters. They see in the move a strong boost for the bonds.

The Newport Beach chamber of commerce gave full backing for the proposed issue in a vote on a motion endorsing the bonds.

Explain Attitude.
In explaining his attitude, Wallace said at the meeting that he had previously refused his support because he thought the amount of money to be expended was unreasonable.

"After thoroughly going over the plans for the new system, I have come to the conclusion that the bonds should be passed. There are some things that I can't bring myself to assent to fully, but I feel that the issue from a broad viewpoint is desirable," Wallace added.

At the first of the meeting, an explanation of the proposed system with the expenditures was given by Paul Kressly, city engineer. He pointed out the work contemplated on a map.

Kressly advanced figures of the water department showing the expense of the city needs for a more adequate water supply. He said the present system was too small and he read a report of John McMillan, retired water superintendent, on the bad condition of the mains.

"In 25 years, the estimated summer population of Newport Beach will total 31,500," Kressly explained. "This population will use 5140 gallons of water a minute. Our present water equipment is taxed to meet the needs of the city now."

The seriousness of the situation was emphasized by Freeman A. Daley, recently appointed water superintendent. He told how the city would be without water in a few hours if a break occurred in the pumping plant.

"We have outgrown our water supply," Daley said. "The receipts of the water department are a fairly sure barometer of the city growth. According to the figures of the last fiscal year receipts increased 45.8 per cent over the previous year."

"Growth at that rate will cause the city to double in size in two years. A critical condition is facing the city in insuring water for estimated increase."

Several other citizens at the meeting expressed their views on the water project. Paul Ellsworth, president officer, declared that water bonds were demanded to keep pace with the city development.

J. P. Greeley said that he had no doubt but that the bonds would carry. He charged that the harbor water would benefit by the voting of adequate water facilities.

A makeshift system was condemned by L. S. Wilkinson, city trustee. He said that such arrangements always cost the most. In a final appeal, Wilkinson asked that the voters back the project with 100 per cent support.

Ask Co-operation To Keep Streets Of City Clean

FULLERTON, Aug. 27.—Co-operation of merchants here was asked by the city council, in keeping streets of the city clean, through review of Ordinance 83, which was passed in 1909 and makes it unlawful to sweep litter of any kind from stores into the streets.

Trustees pointed out that merchants are in the habit of sweeping their stores and sidewalks after the large vacuum street cleaner has passed in the early morning, and this leaves the thoroughfare in a dirty condition until the trip next morning. No action on the matter was threatened by the trustees, but cooperation of the merchants was suggested, so that this step would not be necessary.

ORANGE FOLK GET SHARE OF LAWSON ESTATE

ORANGE, Aug. 27.—With the publication yesterday of the will of Victor Fremont Lawson, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, one of the largest newspapers in the United States, it became known that two of the employees of the paper, who were bequeathed substantial sums by the late editor, were well known in Orange.

Among the list named in the bequests was Adrin B. Adair, mechanical superintendent of the paper, who was willed $25,000; and Miss Harriet M. Dewey, an aunt of Homer Larkin, this city, who was provided for in a $50,000 trust fund.

Adair and his wife are well known in Orange, having spent several winters here. When he retires, they expect to make their home in this city, according to Fred Alden, wire factory executive, who is a close friend of the family.

At present, Adair is interested with Alden and others in this section in the development of a foothill home tract above El Modena. His future home, it was stated, will be built in the new tract.

A veteran employee of the Chicago paper, Adair has been actively identified with the mechanical department since 1875, when he set hand type on the first issue of the paper. In December, this year, he will complete his fiftieth year of continuous service with the Chicago publication.

Miss Dewey's service also dates back 49 years, as the gray-haired cashier has been with the paper since its first publication. Although now 80 years old, Miss Dewey continues actively at the head of the business department. Taking the same interest in the women employed by the paper that Lawson manifested in the male staff, it was not uncommon for Miss Dewey to send girls home for more clothes who came to work unshakably clad during the icy winter months.

Miss Dewey has often visited Homer Larkin and his family in California, the last trip being made four years ago when she visited him at Covina.

Flashlight Man Hits Pole When Turning Corner

ORANGE, Aug. 27.—Charles G. Walter, Los Angeles flashlight salesman, today was facing a reckless driving charge as a result of an automobile crash at the intersection of South Glendale street and Fairhaven avenue early this morning.

Driving at an excessive rate of speed, Walter failed to negotiate the corner and his car crashed into a telephone pole, snapping it off at the base. The car, a coupe, was also wrecked.

Lawrence P. Fricker, Santa Ana, who was riding with Walter, sustained minor cuts from flying glass, but otherwise the occupants were uninjured.

The crash took place just a few minutes before Night Patrolman Shaffer, who had trailed the machine from the Plaza, reached the scene. The pair was brought to the local police station where Walter was charged with reckless driving. He is scheduled to appear before City Recorder G. W. Ingle on September 4 to answer to the charge.

Police Chief Of Los Angeles Is Heard By Club

FULLERTON, Aug. 27.—Chief of Police R. Lee Heath, of Los Angeles, was speaker of the day at a regular meeting of the Fullerton Rotary club yesterday. With Chief Heath were Police Commissioner W. G. Thorpe, and Ralph S. Boyesen, director of the bureau of public relations of the Los Angeles police department.

Chief Heath, in his talk to the Rotarians, stressed the necessity of closer relations between business men and police workers, showing success of the departments depends, to a great extent, upon cooperation of the merchants.

He lauded work done by Chief O. W. Wilson, of the local department, and expressed the belief that work done by him in the city would be a complete success, due to the training under Chief August Vollmer, of the Berkeley police department.

In a short business session, the organizing will be effected. The selection of a badge will also be decided.

During the day, bathing, fishing and other water sports are to be enjoyed by the visitors.

SET ELECTION ON ANNEXATION TO FULLERTON

FULLERTON, Aug. 27.—Drafting of an ordinance calling for an election, was ordered by the city council, which is seeking admission to the city of Fullerton, was ordered by the city council here, following presentation of a petition by landowners requesting the action.

According to the law, persons within the area seeking annexation must be given a chance to express their opinion through an election. City Attorney F. H. Lyon explained to the trustees, and the city is left no recourse but to call such an election. Acceptance or rejection of the district is then within the hands of the city trustees.

The city trustees have power to annex the territory by ordinance if they see fit, or if the petition is rejected following the petitioner's election, it will be submitted to voters of the city at the next general election, or at a special election called for that purpose.

PASTOR AND WIFE LEAVE FOR INDIA

Telephone Rates At Costa Mesa Protest Subject

COSTA MESA, Aug. 27.—Complaints of excessive rates charged for telephone service in Costa Mesa may bring about a slash in charges.

That was the report made before the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce at the first issue of the telephone committee. A conference was held with E. S. Morrow, Orange county manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, at the meeting.

The telephone manager disclosed that extensions of the zone areas were being considered. Business activities here demand the reduction of the telephone rates, it was brought out. Under present conditions, few telephones are being used here because of alleged high charge.

With the extension of the zone of the Newport Beach exchange, rates will be cut Dr. Huston reported. The present plan is to bring the zone from the bridge to Sixteenth street. Belief was expressed that 100 new connections would be made if charges were lowered.

Brea News

BREA, Aug. 27.—M. C. Fiscus was the honored guest at a birthday surprise picnic Sunday at Ganesha park, Pomona. After church the Fiscus family motored to Ganesha park to have a picnic dinner with a few relatives. On their arrival they were met by a large crowd of friends and other relatives who had been invited without Mr. Fiscus being aware of it. A bounteous picnic dinner was spread.

Those who enjoyed the occasion were M. C. Fiscus and family, Joe Smith and family, G. H. Sutphen and family, C. W. Vinson, T. P. Wallace and daughter, Mrs. Florence Morton, Miss Jewel Wallon, Miss Mary Ramage, of Brea, F. B. Vooster and family of Pasadena, Ed Hiatt and family of Arcadia, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Wilson of Garden Grove, Mr. and Mrs. O. Brower and son, Ernest Alexander of Anaheim, Jack Pickering and family of Pomona, Jack Pickering of Brea, Mr. and Mrs. D. Ruddy of the West Coast, Lease, and W. Hays and daughter of Riverside.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Vinson and family will move to Los Angeles where Mr. Vinson will engage in business for himself.

Mrs. Pauline Edge and daughter, Marcia, returned to their home in El Centro Friday night. Mrs. Edge and daughter accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Olmsted, on their trip to Ohio this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nicklett were Los Angeles visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rogers and daughter, Beverly, and Miss Emma Wollmer attended a birthday dinner at Bixby park Sunday.

The dinner was to honor the eighteenth birthday anniversary of August Kahlen, brother of Mrs. Rogers. About 35 guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Russell of Torrance were guests of Mrs. R. Robinson Sunday. Mr. Russell is a brother of Mrs. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Howe left for San Diego Friday for a few days' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Gould of Calexico are visiting with Mrs. Gould's sister, Mrs. James Bergman, and her mother, Mrs. Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallenius are spending their two weeks' vacation in San Francisco.

STATE TAX COMMISSION AND CITY ASSESSOR ARE DISCUSSED BY KIWANIAN

Creation of a state tax commission with authority to investigate public expenditures of any political subdivision; creation of the office of city assessor for the city of Santa Ana; and the tendency of making the modern newspaper a public utility; and the relation of the public to the public schools, were among the subjects handled by different speakers at yesterday's weekly luncheon meeting of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club, at St. Ann's Inn.

President George Wells presided over the gathering, which registered a record attendance, including a large number of visiting Kiwanians from the northern part of the state, and other out-of-town guests.

J. P. Baumgartner, chairman of the public affairs committee, was in charge of the program, which was taken up with addresses on subjects of public interest.

Henry Hawson, well known Fresno attorney and former member of the California state legislature, who also is a former lieutenant governor of the San Joaquin Valley zone of Kiwanis international, was the principal speaker. Other speakers were E. L. Vegely, city clerk of Santa Ana; H. G. Nelson, principal of the Julia A. Lathrop junior high school, and J. P. Baumgartner, editor of the Santa Ana Register.

Pleads for Fair Support
An appeal to support the Orange county fair was made by A. M. Stanley, secretary of the county farm bureau.

Exceptionally interesting as well as instructive was the address by Henry Hawson, whose presentation of the intricate tax question in its different phases disclosed familiarity with the subject.

"Taxation is a subject that has always interested a large number of citizens, particularly property owners and those called upon to contribute to the upkeep of government," he remarked, in introducing the topic.

Tracing the upward trend in tax rates, he explained that the cost of government, like everything else, has increased, with the corresponding decrease in the purchasing value of the dollar.

"But, while the American taxpayer is willing to pay more money for the maintenance of the public service, he has a right to demand that every cent of tax money be properly expended and that value be received for each dollar expended," Hawson declared.

Manner of Expenditure
The taxpayers of the country are not so much concerned in the amount expended as in the manner in which it is expended, he commented.

He went on to say that, under the California laws, the taxpayers have only three methods of checking government expenditures, none of which has proved satisfactory.

These are:
Effort on the part of the individual citizen to investigate assessment rates, tax rates, reasons for bond issues, letting of contracts, expenses of officials, and the like.

Taxpayers' associations, organized for the purpose of investigating taxes and public expenditures.

Grand jury investigations. For obvious reasons, the average taxpayer, lacking political prestige, will find it difficult in securing access to public documents relating to taxation and expenditures of public funds, including awards of contracts, vouchers, and the like, the speaker declared.

While so-called taxpayers' associations have accomplished some good, they have nevertheless failed to achieve the purpose of their organization, he pointed out. The charge that such organizations are made up of wealthy men, large taxpayers, who neither care nor are willing to take cognizance of the problems confronting the small taxpayer.

Shun Grand Jury Probes
As regards grand jury investigations, he continued, very few persons are willing to mix up in proceedings that savor of presumed wrongdoing and subject to criminal investigation.

These observations were followed with a statement to effect that in Indiana there has been established a tax commission, which has authority to investigate all public expenditures of any city, county or other political subdivision.

To preserve the principle of home rule and self government in local affairs, this commission cannot undertake an investigation of local tax matters unless requested to do so by a petition signed by not less than 10 taxpayers.

Illustrating the workings of the commission, Hawson cited the following case:
In 1922, the city of Terre Haute, in Vigo county, Indiana, planned to build two roads on the edge of the city, each two miles long. Taxpayers had petitioned for an eight-inch cement slab road, to be built according to state highway specifications.

But after the roads were approved by the county commissioners, rival road builders took the county commissioners, county engineer and others on a trip to Kansas City. When these men came back and reported, the specifications were changed from concrete to a brick road.

Big Increase in Cost
This would have increased the cost of the road anywhere from $15,000 to $18,000 a mile. The taxpayers who would have to foot the bill for this road protested, and 10 or more petitioned against issuing of the bonds. A member of the state tax board heard all of the evidence. He disapproved the proposed bond issue.

Setting forth his own opinion, Hawson said that the law, if adopted in California, would in no way interfere with local self-government. It simply gives to taxpayers, when in their opinion tax rates proposed by local officers are excessive, or when bond issues proposed are unnecessary, an appeal to the state tax commission, which would have no original jurisdiction in local matters, and only acquire jurisdiction through the affirmative action of 10 or more taxpayers who would be affected by the bond issue proposed or the tax levy under consideration.

He also ventured the belief that, if a bill creating such a commission were introduced in the California state legislature, it would meet with much opposition from public officials, contractors, material men and all others interested in liberal expenditures of public funds.

Vegely Gives Situation
Closely related to the subject of Hawson's talk was a paper read by City Clerk E. L. Vegely, setting forth the local tax situation.

It was as follows:
"County Auditor Jerome has submitted to the Santa Ana board of trustees a figure of $17,102,530 as the value upon which the city trustees must pass an ordinance establishing the tax rate for the current year 1925-26. This valuation is less than for 1924-25.

"Santa Ana, being a city of the fifth class, and having no special charter or form of government, is governed by the laws of the state of California governing cities of the fifth class. Under this law, a tax levy of only $1 on each $100 valuation can be made and can only be apportioned in the following manner: Not more than 60 cents for the general fund; not more than 30 cents for the street fund, leaving only 10 cents for the fire and sewer funds, if the maximum is used for the general and street funds.

"The tax rate for Santa Ana last year was $1.65; the 65 cents over the dollar allowed was the amount necessary to take care of measures voted upon by the people, such as bonds, library, parks, band, advertising, etc. The $1.65 was apportioned in this manner to the various funds: General, 45 cents; street, 30 cents; sewer, 5 1/2 cents; fire, 19 1/2 cents; bonds and interest, 48 1/2 cents; library, 12 cents; planning commission, 1 1/2 cents; park, band and advertising, 3 cents. You will note that the first four funds made up the $1 allowed by the state law.

Rates Not Sufficient
"The maximum of 30 cents for the street fund and the apportionment of 19 1/2 cents for fire and 5 1/2 cents for sewer are insufficient for these departments. Thirty cents for street purposes on $17,102,530 amounts to $51,307.59. The expense for the street department last year, ended June 30, 1925, was approximately $58,684.20.

"Nineteen and one-half cents for the fire fund will raise $32,349.95. The salaries for firemen alone amount to $3500 a month, or $42,000 a year.

"You can readily see that something must be done.

"A bill introduced at the last session of the state legislature granting cities of the fifth class a $1.25 rate was passed by both the house and senate, but was pocketed by the governor, so there can be no help in that line.

"What the city of Santa Ana needs at present is a city assessor. The county assessor's valuations are too low for city purposes and he is unable to give the city the needed valuation because, when he does so, he makes the taxpayers of this city pay more toward the upkeep of the county government than Orange, Anaheim, Fullerton or any other city, and we derive no more benefit from the county government than they do.

"For every hundred dollars in increased value that he levies to increase the valuation for the city, the taxpayer will pay just that much more state and county, school or any other special tax whereby a city assessor places the value for city purposes only.

Three Cities Have Assessors
"Anaheim, Orange and Newport Beach have their own city assessors, the county's assessment being too low. If those cities cannot use the county assessors for valuations, I don't see how any one may think Santa Ana can get along.

"It was reported that last year the cities of San Bernardino and Redlands, which had been using the county assessor's values, were forced to change their form of government and now have city assessors.

"If the city had an assessed valuation of just double the amount of the county assessor's valuation, say $34,000,000, instead of $17,000,000, the tax rate could be set at a little more than half the $1.65 and give the funds that are in a bad way enough to get along on. For example, if it takes 45 cents to get by on $17,000,000 valuation, on $34,000,000 valuation it would take 22 1/2 cents for the general fund and give you the same amount.

"The street, fire and sewer funds could be set at a figure a little more than half the present rate and give them sufficient interest. The rate for bonds and interest and all others could be exactly half, thereby increasing your tax levy only a nominal amount and give an opportunity to place the money in the funds where it is most needed.

"I do not know whether I have made my subject clear, but think it over. Kiwanians, it's pretty much public affairs."

Speaks on School Relations
"The Relation of the Public to the Public Schools" was the topic of a brief address made by H. G. Nelson, principal of the Julia A. Lathrop junior high school.

He said:
"M. Durkheim, the eminent French sociologist and educator, in his last book, 'Education is Sociologic,' finds that education has infinitely varied according to time and the country.

"Customs and ideas which determine the type of education were not made by the individual. They are the product of common life and express its needs. All the past has contributed to make up the educational thought today.

"Durkheim arrives at the following definition: 'Education is the action exerted by the adult generations on those not yet ripe for social life. It has for its object to arouse and to develop in the child a certain number of physical, intellectual and moral states which the political society in its entirety, and the special surroundings which he is particularly destined, demand from him.'

"Since education is a function essentially social, the state can not remain disinterested.

Education and Kiwanians
"This leads up to the activity of the Kiwanis international through its two committees—the committee on public affairs for Canada, and the committee on public affairs for the United States. Both of these committees recognize the importance of education for efficient citizenship and so they each recommend the observance of week of the constitution which they urge as 'citizenship week' of the year.

"The constitution of the International Kiwanis club is a document of moral and spiritual thought in community life; and that determined effort be made to interest the citizens of the United States and Canada to the end that a sound public opinion aroused as may lead to a more general exercise of the franchise.

"I don't know what the conditions are in Canada, but judging from the recommendations made above, they must be experiencing something of the same apathy we do in this country."

"The fact that only 52.8 per cent of the qualified electors of the United States voted at the last presidential election, in spite of all the work done by the various organizations, demonstrates the necessity for our concentration of effort to educate and promote an intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship."

Where Schools Are Lax
"We must admit that the schools have been somewhat lax in the matter of teaching governmental fundamentals, but we are not entirely to blame in this respect. Responsibilities have been shifted from other shoulders to ours, but facilities for handling the new duties have not been equally increased. The schools of this country last year took care of $37,000 more pupils than were enrolled two years ago. The elementary increase was about 1.6 per cent, while the high schools are 17.7 per cent greater than in 1922. This means that children are kept in their studies longer than before.

"The 1.6 per cent increase in the elementary schools probably represents the population increase, while the increased high school enrollment shows the desire on the part of American parents that their children shall have the best possible preparation to meet situations as they arise in life.

"This increased demand for what the schools have to offer is a high compulsion to our system of free public education and an expression of appreciation of the work the teacher is doing."

Editor of Register Speaks
"In a somewhat indefinite and indirect, but very important service, the newspaper is public property—it belongs to its readers. It is responsible and accountable to them, and they owe it co-operation and support on a basis of enlightened selfishness."

Such, in substance, was the opening statement of J. P. Baumgartner, editor and publisher of the Register, in his talk to the Kiwanians.

If every good, thoughtful, sincere, public-spirited citizen would realize and feel that he has a right to be heard on questions of public welfare, that the editor will welcome his suggestions, advice and counsel, either in private conference or published communication, the newspaper's service to the community would be greatly improved, said the speaker.

Responsibility Is Understood
He emphasized the fact that every conscientious editor feels deeply his responsibility and sincerely desires to serve the community he is privileged to represent in a journalistic way—to serve it constructively and intelligently and in harmony with the community's consciousness, while seeking to the best of his ability, to help other publicists in forming and directing the community conscience along lines of the highest and best social welfare.

"The modern newspaper," said Mr. Baumgartner, "is rapidly taking its place in the ranks of public utilities—not merely in theory, but in fact. This is especially true of newspapers in towns of less than 50,000 population, and more emphatically true of papers which occupy such fields exclusively—of which there is an ever-increasing number."

The main reason for both the public utility character of the newspaper and for its rapidly increasing number of newspapers occupying exclusive fields, the speaker pointed out, is economic pressure. The cost of publishing a good newspaper is relatively so large, and is increasing so rapidly, he said, that both publishers and advertisers are forced to eliminate useless duplication of service, as in the case of telephones, gas, water, electricity, transportation, etc. Thus it was shown that the development of the public utility character of the newspaper and its natural and beneficent monopoly aspect go hand in hand.

Local Figures Are Given
To illustrate and verify these asserted facts and figures the speaker gave some statistics about our own home paper, as follows:

"The total cost of producing the Register for the 12 months ending Dec. 31, 1924, was $281,810.45, or an average of $23,484.21 per month. For the first six months of 1925, the total cost of production has been $149,298.77, an average of $24,883.79 per month. This is an increase of $1557.24 per month or 6.67 per cent, while the volume of business has increased only 2.53 per cent.

"Putting this into the simplest figures, the monthly average of advertising income for the first half of 1925, represents an increase in revenue of only $534.24, as compared with a monthly average increase in costs of $1537.24.

As evidence of the peculiar economics of the newspaper business and the tremendous advantage to the advertiser of relatively large circulation, the speaker pointed out that 17 years ago the Register had less than 1000 circulation, and the business men of Santa Ana were paying it an average advertising rate of 10 cents per 1000 of circulation; now, when its circulation is well above 10,000, they are paying an average rate of 4.2 cents per 1000 of circulation.

These facts were pointed out, the publisher said, to show how intricately the interests of the readers and advertisers and publishers are intertwined and interdependent.

Wrigley Spends Million a Year For Advertising
Wrigley, the chewing gum man, has explained how he built up a business of millions of packages a day.

He has done it by sticking to his one line and advertising it. He spends over a million dollars a year in buying newspaper space to tell the world about 5 cent chewing gum. He has educated people to chew gum and to chew Wrigley's. He did not stop advertising as soon as he attracted attention.

He says you must keep it up or the buyers will forget you. Whether yours is a 5 cent or a $50,000 business keeping telling about it.

is the latest improvement in Volck. It contains the same active ingredients, gives the same results as Volck in the original form, and cuts the cost per tank almost in half.

When you spray with VOLCK the windward corner of your grove becomes as thrifty and productive as any other part. The hot winds that sometimes cause so much damage, cause you little concern. For VOLCK eradicates Red Spider and with it Red Spider Wind Damage.

The spider has no chance to sap the vitality of the leaves and the winds find the trees sturdy and vigorous, much better prepared to withstand the drying burning effect than trees where pest control has not been attempted or where other methods or materials have been used.

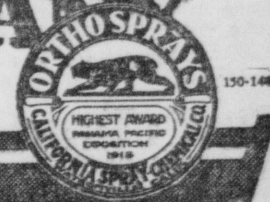

VOLCK kills the pest in all stages of development from the egg to the adult, and the trees remain free from spider over a surprisingly long period. We have been in groves where after spraying with VOLCK spider has not reappeared in more than a year's time.

VOLCK not only kills Red Spider, but all varieties of citrus scale including mealy bug and gives thorough clean-up in one application. It should be applied now while the Black Scale is young and the work can be done at least cost. VOLCK can be applied in warm weather when other materials would be out of the question because of the danger of burning.

FRUIT GROWER IS DEFENDANT IN COURT SUIT

Alleged failure of J. E. Schumacher, prominent Anaheim fruit grower, to market his Orange crops of the last two years through the Anaheim Co-operative Orange association, in which he held membership, resulted today in the filing of a suit for $2730 damages against him.

The complaint claims a forfeit of 25 cents per box for each one of the 10,920 boxes of fruit that Schumacher is thought to have marketed through other channels during the seasons of 1924 and 1925. Schumacher's ranch consists of 11½ acres.

The complaint on file in court alleges that Schumacher held a certificate of membership in the association, under which he had through the association, by-laws of the association, it is alleged, provide that members, who violate their agreement, must pay a penalty of 25 cents a box for all fruit marketed elsewhere.

The Anaheim association has no stock, certificates of membership being issued instead.

Attorney E. O. Mathis, of Anaheim, represents the association.

production, he turned to the main topics of his address, which included Orange County Harbor, the Colorado River Boulder Dam project and the All-American canal, and the administration of the Canal Zone.

He pledged his support to Orange County Harbor, which, when completed and ready for maritime traffic, would contribute its share to the development of the world's commerce in the Pacific.

He urged the people of Orange county to come to the aid of the 65,000 people living in Imperial valley by supporting the Swing-Johnson bill, and to stand behind the men who are fighting for its enactment into law.

Recording his observations during a recent trip from Key West to San Francisco via the Panama canal, he took occasion to praise the American administration of the Panama canal.

SLIDE IN WAKE OF RAIN KILLS ELEVEN

TOKIO, Aug. 27.—A landslide, roaring down the sides of the volcanic Mount Fujiyama, in the path of rain torrents, has claimed 11 lives and endangered 1000 mountain climbers, according to information here today. The storms, which yesterday swept eastern Japan, have ceased, leaving behind considerable damage from inundation of thousands of homes.

TROOPS RUSHED TO FLOODED DISTRICTS

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The Central News' Tokyo correspondent wires that troops have been hastened to the relief of the flood-stricken districts, where thousands are homeless. All foreigners were reported safe.

COMB MOUNTAINS FOR MISSING MAN

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 27.—More than 50 searchers made a systematic hunt of ravines and mountains in the Lake Arrowhead district today, in an effort to find Fred Spoon, 21, of Torrance, who disappeared Sunday.

Spoon was spending his vacation at the Pacific Electric Employees' camp, in the San Bernardino mountains, with his mother and sister. He left the camp Sunday to go fishing and nothing has been heard from him since.

The Pacific Electric Employees' club announced today that it will pay $100 to the person who finds Spoon, dead or alive.

Start Probe In Insectory Blast

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 27.—A double investigation was under way here today to determine the cause of the blast which last night wrecked the insectory in the capitol park grounds.

Both the local authorities and state chemists are probing the explosion which shook buildings for blocks in the vicinity of the park and broke windows in nearby residences.

No one was injured by the explosion. Damage to the building and equipment is estimated at between $7000 and $10,000.

500 Film Extras Flee from Flames

UNIVERSAL CITY, Calif., Aug. 27.—Five hundred "extras" fled panic-stricken from the Universal studios today when fire broke out on a big movie set during filming of a picture.

The flames started on the stage during the taking of a gigantic interior scene, and spread rapidly to other sections of the building. None of the players was burned.

Firesmen from Hollywood extinguished the blaze after it had caused $15,000 damage.

Discover Body of Mountain Climber

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 27.—The body of William Robbins, 76, local resident, has been found at the foot of an 85-foot crag, near the top of Mount Crest.

The searchers, who were aided by bloodhounds, came upon the body after a hunt beginning Tuesday night.

Robbins, who was an adept and experienced climber, even at his age, is thought to have been blinded by rain and did not see the precipice.

2 DAYS REMAIN TO GIVE JELLY FOR VETERANS

With only two more days before August 30, the date set for the American Legion auxiliary members to take jam, jelly and home-made cakes to disabled ex-service men at Camp Kearney, members of the organization are wondering how many jars they will have by Sunday. Mrs. Eugene Robinson, president, said today.

"Santa Anans always have stood at command when the auxiliary called for help and it is pretty sure that this call for sweets for the boys will not be in vain," she said.

Donations are being received at the American Legion home on Birch street, today, with Mrs. Verna Jacoby and Mrs. Fannie Reeves, of the auxiliary welfare committee, in charge. They will stay on duty until late this afternoon and tomorrow, from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m., to receive the donations. Citizens are urged to take their donations to the building.

Want Fresh Cakes

It is suggested that those who expect to donate cakes for the ex-service men do not bake them or bring them to the hall until Saturday, in order to keep them as fresh as possible before taken to the camp.

A call also has been made for small bed pillows. Scores of these are needed and Camp Kearney has reported a shortage of small pillows for many months.

E. L. Struble, American Legion member, is making dozens of bus-tin pillows at his place of business, the Santa Ana Mattress company, but all persons who have small pillows and can spare them are asked to bring these with their jam donations to the Legion home.

Cards Sent Out

Cards sent out by the American Legion auxiliary a week ago reminded members of the auxiliary that they were expected to bake a cake for the ex-service men, and also were to solicit jellies and jams from their friends.

Members of the auxiliary who wish to go to Camp Kearney Sunday and be present when the ex-service men are given the Santa Ana presents are asked to call Mrs. Reeves, No. 395J, immediately, so that she may know how many machines will be needed. A number of Legion members have offered the use of their cars and there will be transportation for all, provided reservations are made in advance.

Mrs. Robinson said today that plans had been completed for the taking of picnic lunches by the members of the organization who make the trip. She has asked that each member also take enough to feed the drivers of the cars, who will be Legion members.

The "jelly caravan" will leave the Legion home at 8:30 Sunday morning.

Propose Limiting Mexican Laborers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—A "gentleman's agreement" with Mexico for restriction of Mexican immigration into the United States will be proposed to the administration by the American Federation of Labor, President William Green announced today. Details of the agreement were worked out here today between federal officials and Secretary Marones, of the Mexican department of commerce and labor, who is here for a conference on the subject.

15,000 'COMP' FAIR TICKETS SENT SCHOOLS

The Santa Ana postoffice assumed a Christmas rush appearance yesterday, when 15,000 complimentary tickets to the Orange County fair were mailed by order of the executive board. The tickets were sent to the clerks of the various elementary schools with the request that they be distributed among the pupils on the opening day of school. The tickets are good for admission at the fair on any day except Saturday, the pupil to be accompanied by parent or guardian.

"This is not an advertising stunt," declared H. A. Lake, president of the fair, "but as an educational event we believe every school child should visit the fair and we want to make it possible for them to do so. But, of course, we could not handle such large crowds of children unless they had some older person in charge of them, so we have added the restriction."

"It has given us a great deal of pleasure to pass out these 'comps,'" continued Lake, "but already we have discovered the usual fly in the ointment. R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools, believes that the use of these tickets will retard school attendance to such an extent that it will be felt in the annual school appropriation from the state. Mitchell says he wants to co-operate with the fair and suggests that the grammar schools declare a one-day holiday for the purpose of permitting the children to attend the fair. This would not affect the attendance records."

Santa Barbara To Get Money From Fullerton

FULLERTON, Aug. 27.—Fullerton's share of the $25,000 quota, which is to be raised by Orange county for rehabilitation of public buildings in Santa Barbara was set at $2,500 by members of a committee appointed by the board of supervisors of the county.

A number of citizens of Fullerton were appointed by Supervisor Schumacher to take part in the work in Fullerton. Plans for collection of the money were laid at a meeting of the entire committee last night in the directors' room of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank. The committee:

Mayor H. H. Crooke, chairman; R. T. Davies, R. H. Biggs, Tom Taylor, Mrs. Lottie E. Morse, Gurman Hoppe, Mrs. Albert Launer, Mrs. Samuel Smith, O. M. Thompson, Angus McAulay, Geo. C. Welton, J. Retired Broker Tax Lien Debtor

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—Frank P. Orsatti, retired broker of San Francisco, has been named debtor in two federal income tax liens to the amount of $67,709.

The liens, covering alleged unpaid income for the years 1921 and 1922, were filed at the U. S. district clerk's office here.

The Only Washer Manufactured With Aluminum Tub

Saturday, August 29th, This Wonderful Event Closes! Remember the Date!

Mr. A. M. Davidson, Maytag Campaign Manager, has secured permission from the Maytag factory to sell a few more machines at these remarkable terms. We hope they will last until the store closes, Saturday, so no one will be disappointed.

Nine Reasons Why They Sold So Fast! Nine Reasons Why They Outsell the World!

1. Washes faster. The Gyrafoam Principle creates a more highly energized, turbulent and continuously effective water action. No idle water.
2. Washes cleaner. The Gyrafoam Principle mixes the soap evenly through the water, and forces the super-cleansing, soapier washing solution through the meshes of the clothes. No idle suds.
3. Largest hourly capacity in world—50 pounds ordinary family wash per hour.
4. Most compact washer made—takes floor space only 25 inches square.
5. Cast aluminum tub—can't warp, rust, rot, swell, split nor corrode.
6. Easily adjusted to your height, and height of tubs.
7. Clothes can be put in or taken out while washer is running.
8. Tub cleans itself in 30 seconds.
9. Metal swinging wringer. Low. Swings into 7 positions. Adjusts itself automatically for handkerchiefs or blankets. Automatic drainboard. Instant tension-release. All parts enclosed.

BUILDING WORK IN SANTA ANA ON INCREASE FIGURES SHOW

Valuation For This Month Nearly Double That For Same Period, Last Year

AUGUST PERMITS TOTAL $230,275

Residential Construction Continues to Lead All Other Activity

Permits aggregating $230,275 have been issued here since August 1, as compared with $126,670 for the entire month of August, last year, it was learned at the office of Building Inspector W. S. Decker, today. Decker estimates that the sum this month will be more than double that for the same period of 1924.

The year-to-date figures are also in excess of the 1924 figures, a total of $1,368,259 being issued from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, 1924, as compared with $1,487,354, the 1925 year-to-date total.

Decker's figures show that the majority of the permits granted are for residences. Among those who have taken out residential permits recently is Ed Moore of 312 East Ninth street, who will erect an eight-room dwelling and a garage at 820 French street. The cost will aggregate $7500. The contract is held by E. W. Smith.

The Sanatoria Land company, of the First National bank building, has taken out permits for the erection of a residence and garage at 1615 French street. The cost will amount to approximately $6000. Construction will be by day work.

Another $6000 home will be built at 514 East Myrtle street by Justus Bletcher, of 424 East Myrtle street. The dwelling will have six rooms. Mr. Bletcher will supervise the work.

Five thousand dollars will be expended by H. L. Fowler, 1210 South Broadway, in erection of a house and a garage at 1222 South Broadway. The house will have seven rooms.

Roy Russell, Third and Sycamore streets, plans the erection of a six-room dwelling and a garage at 2145 Greenleaf avenue, at an expenditure of $4000.

A residence and a garage, to cost $3000, will be built at 725 Kilson drive by Mrs. Julia N. Drake, 514 Vance street. Construction will be by day labor.

Roy Silkwood, 901 West First street, has secured a permit for construction of a tire and battery shop at the same address.

Harry Bladen

The rotund realtor here pictured is Harry D. Bladen, well known Santa Anan, who has his office at 309 North Sycamore street.

Bladen is a native of Nebraska, born at Colridge, 33 years ago. He attended schools in that state and is a graduate of Beebeville university. For some years, Bladen resided in Milwaukee, Wis., where he was buyer and manager for the Kesselman and Driscoll company.

Bladen came to Santa Ana six and a half years ago. For the first two years he sold automobiles and for the next four years was a salesman for Stanley Goode, local realtor.

A short time ago, Bladen took out a brokers' license and started in business for himself.

He is a member of both the senior and junior chambers of Commerce and also is a member of the Santa Ana Board of Realtors. Practically, he is an Elk. He is secretary-treasurer of the Orange County Alumni association of U. S. C.

Bladen is interested in all outdoor sports and is an ardent baseball and football fan. He is eagerly looking forward to the world series battle.

He is a booster for all Orange county and Santa Ana and is extremely optimistic concerning the growth of this city and county.

S. A. PRODUCTS TO BE HANDLED ON STATE BASIS

Implement Manufacturer Here Gets Three-Car Order from L. A. Firm

A contract whereby the deep tillage implements manufactured here by H. F. Towner will be distributed on a state-wide basis by Dixon, Griswold and company, of Los Angeles, has been signed and an order placed for three carloads of the implements. It was announced today by B. V. Curry, manager of the Towner establishment.

As a result of the order, the number of men employed in the local plant has been doubled, 15 now being on the payroll.

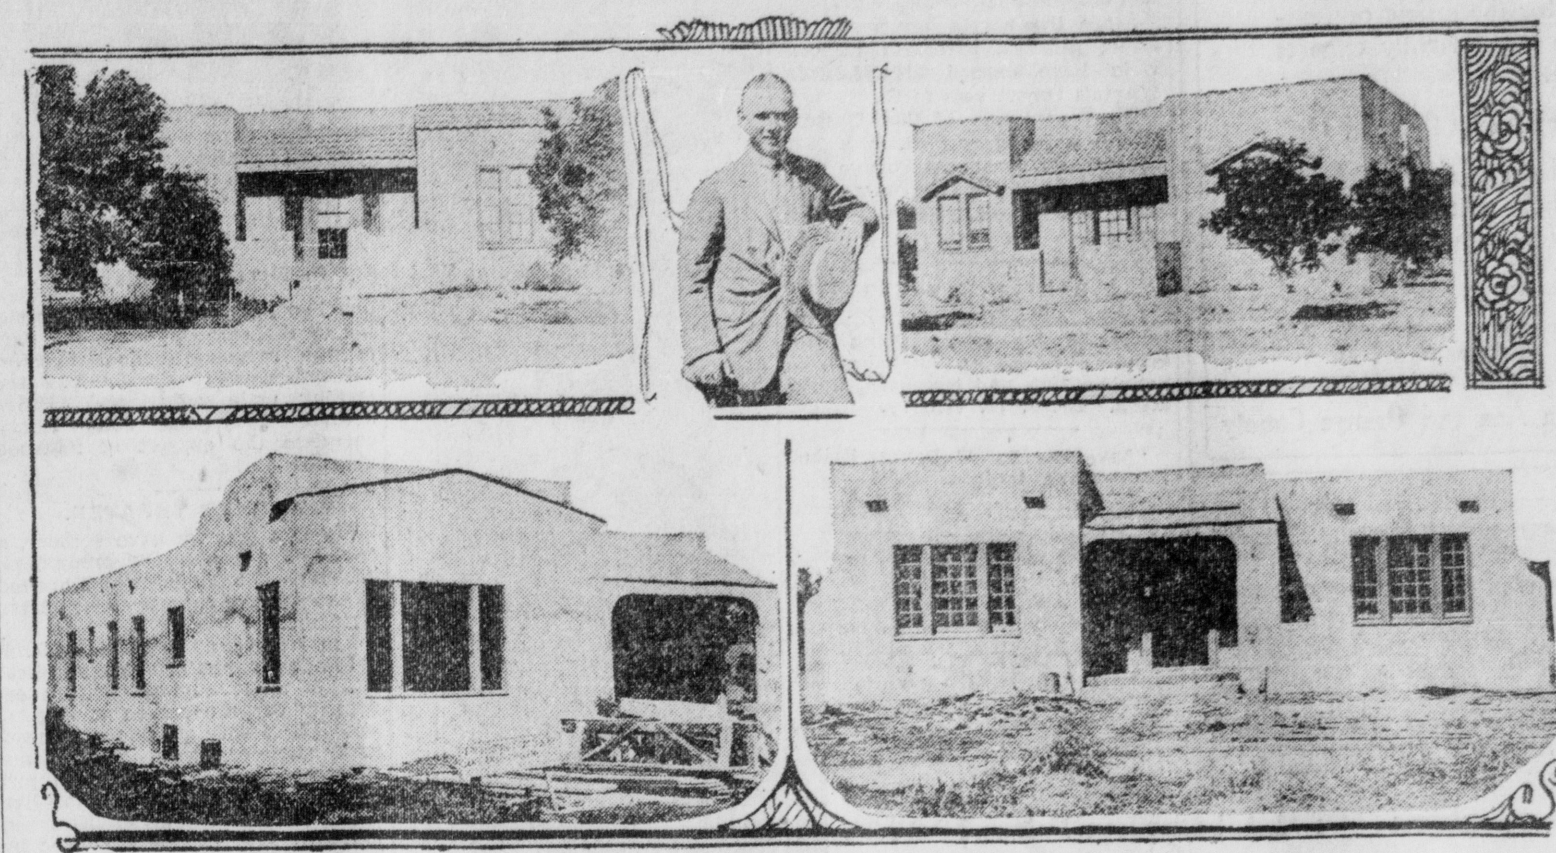

"The Towner line is the logical development of ideas evolved by a practical mind from an experience of more than a quarter of a century," said Curry today. "In that experience, Mr. Towner, the designer has had an opportunity to see the weaknesses of tools designed for the handling of heavy soils. In his designs, he has aimed for strength and simplicity.

According to Curry, Dixon, Griswold and company is an old established firm, having been in business in the state for more than 20 years. Recently, they decided to handle a line of deep tillage tools and after a thorough investigation, concluded that the Towner line was the best to be had, Curry says.

A complete shipment of the Towner line for exhibition at the state fair at Sacramento left here Monday. Mr. Towner and L. A. Collier, a salesman, will leave Sunday for Sacramento where they will remain until the fair is over.

The Towner implements will be exhibited in space reserved by the Los Angeles firm.

IMPROVEMENT FIRM BUILDING MANY HOMES HERE

Upper left, residence of Warren K. McCarty, 821 North Lowe r street; upper center, W. Floyd Croddy, president of the Santa Ana Improvement company; right, residence at 913 North Lower street. Both homes were purchased by the improvement firm. Lower photos show houses on North Flower which are under construction.

MANY BUILDERS PLAN TO ATTEND BALBOA PICNIC

More than 500 builders and their families are expected to attend the picnic which the Orange County Builders exchange will hold at the Balboa Palisades, September 5, it was stated today by Louis Allen, manager of the exchange.

The exchanges in other Southland cities will undoubtedly be well represented at the gathering, invitations having been extended to these organizations, Allen says.

Several officers of the Los Angeles exchange, with which the Orange county body is affiliated, are expected at the picnic. Among them are Lynn S. Atkinson Jr., president, and Paul F. Langworthy, secretary-manager.

Included on the program at the picnic will be a women's bridge party, baseball game between the "Splinters" and the "Knot Holes," dancing, boating, fishing and various other games. The picnic will commence at 2 p. m., and continue until late in the evening.

LOCAL COMPANY PLANS TO EXPEND $65,000 IN NEXT FOUR MONTHS ON HOUSES

A total of 15 homes, representing an investment of approximately $65,000, will be erected in this city within the next four months by the Santa Ana Improvement company, W. Floyd Croddy, president, announced today.

Twenty-five residences, representing an expenditure of about $100,000, have been constructed in Santa Ana by the company since January 1, Croddy stated.

In the two years that the firm has been organized, 115 houses, totaling $500,000 in value, have been constructed in Santa Ana, Croddy says.

The firm has three houses under construction at the present time and expects to start two more within the next few days.

"The demand for good, substantial homes is increasing," said Croddy today. "Practically every house that we have constructed has been sold before it was completed."

Croddy declared that 90 per cent of the residences in Santa Ana and other places in the Southland are of stucco construction. Practically every house built nowadays has a breakfast room, he says.

The employment of Ed Glavis, well known Pasadena architect, as designer for the Santa Ana Improvement company was announced by Croddy. Glavis assumes his duties with the firm September 1.

FARM CENTERS BACKING FAIR, SAYS H. A. LAKE

The county fair here September 22 to 26 will be almost entirely a county affair, according to H. A. Lake, Garden Grove, president of the fair association. There will be fine exhibits from other sections of the state, but this county's products will furnish most of the exhibit space, he says. Incidentally, the fair will be carried entirely by county residents.

The farm centers, backed by the vast majority of the 4000 farmers of the county, are boosters of the fair, furnishing much of the personnel and entering sizable individual exhibits, Lake declares.

County merchants will furnish lumber, feed, plumbing and other construction supplies, as well as decorations and equipment for booths. Farms over the county will send in by far the larger part of the displays of the many varieties of crops produced here. Ranches near here will supply a notable portion of the "outlaw" steers for the rodeo.

The world, and the Southland in particular, is invited here. It is planned to present a fair that, for interest, thrills and valuable information will bring every man, woman, boy and girl together to be entertained as never before, according to President Lake.

The regalia and administrative supplies are of Orange county manufacture. Tickets, banners, windshield stickers, posters, window cards, road signs have all been made in the county. Artists, writers and "signographers" have offered their services, and have helped Commercial artists, engravers, sign painters and printers all are county men.

"The money is being spent in Orange county," said F. L. Purinton, chairman of the publicity committee.

"It seems that everyone is proud of the county fair, and is doing his best to make it worthy of Orange county. There is a lot of voluntary service, for which no pay is asked. In fact, Orange county is supporting the fair with wonderful spirit."

Newspapers, chambers of commerce, luncheon and civic clubs and women's clubs of every section are aiding, Purinton says. Players and dancers are enthusiastically preparing to make historical Orange county live again for the instruction and entertainment of the new age.

SOCIALIST UNIT TO BE ORGANIZED

Organization of a unit of the Socialist party in Santa Ana will take place at a meeting to be held in the home of George Dunn, 1011 West Chestnut street, tonight, at 7:30 o'clock. It was announced today by Emil Herman, Seattle, one of the seven district organizers sent out from national headquarters in Chicago. All who are interested are invited to attend the meeting.

Herman formed a Socialist unit in Anaheim last week, the seventh he has formed in the Southland in the last two weeks.

A lecture on the aims of the Socialist party will be given in the municipal auditorium, Long Beach, Saturday night.

Class In Real Estate To Begin Sessions Sept. 2

A class in real estate instruction, with H. T. Richards, an official of the Orange County Title company, as instructor, will begin sessions here September 2. The class is open to all who desire to learn more about the realty transactions, regardless of whether they are engaged in the business or not. Those desiring to enter are requested to communicate with Jack Wallace, 105 West Third street, or Harry D. Bladen, 309 North Sycamore street.

S. F. MAN TO TALK FIRE PREVENTION

J. H. Shiveley, San Francisco, secretary of the Insurance Federation of California, has been secured to talk on "Fire Prevention" at the weekly luncheon session of the Santa Ana Board of Realtors at Ketter's cafe Friday noon. It was learned today from W. B. Martin, secretary of the board.

Special invitations have been issued to the fire chief, members of the fire council and the insurance club to attend the session, Martin stated.

"Mr. Shiveley is one of the best informed fire prevention experts in the country," said Martin. "He is in wide demand as a speaker because of his knowledge and the board may consider itself fortunate in securing him as a speaker. All interested in the subject to be discussed Friday are invited to be present."

TRADES GROVE FOR APARTMENT HOUSE

G. W. Willingham, local house mover, has traded his 14-room apartment house in Salt Lake City for a 10-acre orange grove located near Bloomington, San Bernardino county. The citrus property was owned by J. W. Wall, of Anaheim. The orange grove is planted to 12-year-old valencia trees and is considered one of the best in San Bernardino county. The Salt Lake City structure adjoins the state capitol.

Wall was represented in the deal by W. B. Martin, and Willingham by Frank Musselman, both of Santa Ana.

Graduates To Get Diplomas Sept. 17

A meeting to map out an educational campaign for the year and to present diplomas to those who have graduated from the last realty class will be held by the Orange County Real Estate Alumni Association of U. S. C. at Ketter's cafe, September 17. It was announced today by Harry D. Bladen, secretary. Nine men will be given diplomas, Bladen stated.

Revenues From 10 Industries $3,392,639,000

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 27.—California's ten leading industries netted revenues totalling $3,394,639,000, State Controller Ray L. Riley declared here today in a review of business conditions for the last year.

This revenue is nearly nine times of that derived by Florida from similar industries, Riley stated. Florida's industries produced but $394,000,000.

In the following, the Florida totals are given first.

Fruit, $30,000,000; $177,000,000; field crops, $22,000,000; $194,000,000; truck crops, $18,000,000; $48,000,000; milk-butter, $7,000,000; $118,000,000; eggs-poultry, $8,000,000; $55,000,000; livestock, $9,000,000; $50,000,000; minerals, $20,000,000; $358,000,000; lumber, $30,000,000; $68,000,000; manufacturing, $150,000,000; $2,216,639,000; tourist trade, $100,000,000; $110,000,000. Totals, $394,000,000; $3,394,639,000.

REALTY MEN FAMILIES TO HOLD PICNIC ON SATURDAY

More Than 300 Realtors, Wives and Children to Gather in County Park

Baseball Game, Horseshoe Pitching Contest Are Included on Program

More than 300 realtors and their families will attend the picnic which the Associated Realty Boards of Orange county will hold at the county park Saturday afternoon and evening, it was estimated today by Jack Wallace, chairman of the committee making arrangements.

Among the prominent realtors who are expected to be present are D. Richard Ainsley, Fresno, president of the California Real Estate association, and Glenn D. Willaman, Los Angeles, secretary of the organization.

While a few speeches will be made, all will be short, Wallace states. The affair will begin at 2 o'clock with a baseball game between teams representing the Santa Ana and Anaheim boards. Following will be all kinds of races, a game of marbles and a horseshoe-pitching contest. Dancing will be enjoyed in the pavilion in the evening. A "mystery" number, which is expected to provide a great deal of amusement, is planned for the evening, according to members of the committee.

The committee will furnish coffee, cream and sugar. Dinner will be eaten about 5:30 o'clock.

Assisting Wallace are William Iverson, Carl Mock, Newt Wray, J. E. Livesey Jr., and Asa Hoffman. The picnic is planned especially for the wives and children of realtors, said Livesey. "There will be games for them and we want all who can to attend."

The Associated Realty boards of Orange county is made up of the boards of Santa Ana, Anaheim, Huntington, Orange, Garden Grove, Fullerton, Orange Beach and Laguna Beach.

40,000 Realtors Listed In State Bureau's Book

The new real estate directory of the state real estate department has made its appearance. It contains 660 pages, and the names of all the brokers and salesmen who were licensed up to March 15, 1925.

The number of license holders has decreased nearly 20,000 since two years ago, but there are still more than 40,000 dealers in the state. The new directory is distributed by the department to the brokers, and as it contains the names of the brokers in nearly 1000 towns, it is a compendium of information for the realtor. The supplemental volume will be issued this fall.

ISSUE 73 PRISON PAROLES IN JULY

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 27.—Paroled convicts from California penitentiaries earned a total of $151,522.44 during the month of July, the monthly report of Edward H. Whyte, state parole officer, which has been submitted to Gov. Friend W. Richardson, shows.

Seventy-three paroles were granted during the month, according to the report. Paroles to San Quentin convicts numbered 64, while at Folsom only nine paroles were granted.

Since the parole law went into effect in 1933, paroled state convicts have earned $10,086,242.69, Whyte's report sets forth.

The population of San Quentin prison is listed as 3161, with 1673 convicts on parole. At Folsom prison, the population is given as 1412, with 329 convicts at liberty through paroles.

WEST END

Nothing more realistic has been produced in the motion picture art which has been born and reached maturity in our own generation than First National's gigantic film version of the Sienkiewicz novel, "Quo Vadis," which opened a 3 days' engagement at the West End theater yesterday.

In the arena scene, where the Christians are hurled to the lions and that great scene in which Rome is burned, one feels the terror and panic of the fleeing populace as bearing their household goods their children and their aged relatives, they flee before the all-devouring flames.

One contrasts, too, this scene when the Roman Empire was crumbling with the scenes of modern times, when the inhabitants of many villages in Belgium and northern France have likewise fled from their homes—not before the invading hordes, but to make a Roman Emperor's holiday.

In the scene in the arena where the band of Christian martyrs await Nero's persecutions, one is reminded also of the martyrs of our own day who face privation and death for the sake of an ideal dearer to them than life.

After the games are over, when the Roman populace has imposed its will upon the selfish and degenerate Nero, Vinicius escapes with Lygia, and later marries her. Emil Jennings, well remembered for his dramatic characterizations in "Passion," "Deception" and others, has the role of Nero, and does perhaps the most brilliant work of his career.

Lillian Hall Davis, a young English stage star, is seen as the beautiful Christian girl, Lygia. The supporting cast is said to number 20,000 persons, and its hugeness is in conformity with the remainder of the stupendous spectacle.

YOST THEATER

Characterizing, not caricaturing, American rural people was the task performed by James Cruze in filming his newest Paramount production, "Marry Me!" for which a small town locale serves as a background.

Cruze, the master of "human humor," has met with unvaried success whenever called to put on the screen a representation of rural American life. The secret, which he declares is not a secret—only common sense, is to show people as they really are.

According to the man who made "The Covered Wagon" and dozens of other outstanding photoplays, to caricature rural characters would serve to weaken a picture because it would rob it of accuracy and realism.

"People in small towns, at least, realize there is an outside world," pointed out Cruze, "and it is surprising how down to the minute their knowledge of outside affairs is. On the other hand, a large percentage of our population in our largest city, New York, is convinced that the world is bounded by the east and Hudson rivers."

Cruze always demands naturalness and in "Marry Me!" he exacted it from every member of the company. The result is that the various players interpret their roles with an earnestness, a sincerity and spontaneity that leaves no room for any criticism.

"Marry Me!" was adopted from the popular comedy stage play, "The Nest Egg," by Anne Caldwell. It mirrors in delightful style the many humorous complications in which a lovely little school teacher becomes involved when she fools her home town into believing that she is going to be married.

KIWANIS CLUB TO RECONSIDER SMOKING EDICT

Following what may have been termed an armistice on a delicate and extremely ticklish question of policy, the Santa Ana Kiwanis club, at its regular meeting yesterday, voted to reconsider the smoke ban adopted two weeks ago. The question of "smoke or not to smoke" was left to the discretion and judgment of the board of governors.

Ever since the prohibitory edict was included in the "verbotten" list, the staunch supporters of Lady Nicotine have felt that it worked an imposition on personal privilege. Yesterday they had an opportunity to express themselves.

Wellington Made Motion
Col. M. B. Wellington, holding the office of lieutenant governor of the district, fired the opening gun by making a motion that the smoke ban be reconsidered. He was opposed by B. R. Ford, author of the prohibitory edict, who claimed that the colonel was not qualified to make the motion, not having been present when the anti-tobacco rule was adopted.

While both Wellington and Ford confined themselves at the start to the issue, personalities began to creep into the spirited discussion in which other members took part. Oil On Troubled Water
J. P. Baumgartner threw oil on troubled waters by suggesting that some qualified member make the necessary motion, which proposition met with unanimous approval.

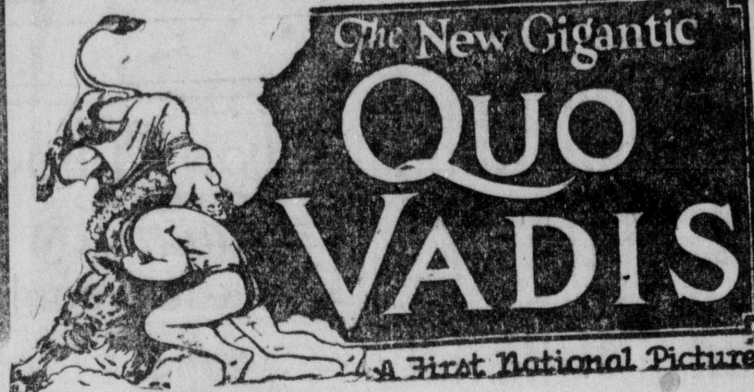

Robert Speed, manager of the Enterprise Printing company, then made the necessary motion to reconsider the anti-smoke edict, which was carried without a dissenting vote.

intendent of Santa Barbara, was made last night by City Manager Herbert Nunn, following a brief conference with Mr. Haskell yesterday afternoon. The city council, which already has unofficially sanctioned the appointment of Mr. Haskell, will be asked by the city manager to approve the appointment. According to Mr. Nunn, Mr. Haskell came to Santa Barbara yesterday by accident and the city manager claims that the appointment was not prearranged but resulted from the conference yesterday afternoon.

ALHAMBRA.—Alhambra city taxes will be 7 and 8 cents higher in the new fiscal year over last year, it was decided by the city commissioners at their meeting last night. For the purpose of taxation, the city is divided into three districts: One the city as originally incorporated; annexes Nos. 1 and 2, and annex No. 3. The new taxes in the three districts will be $1.57, $1.54 and $1.50. Last year's taxes were $1.49, $1.47 and $1.43. These represent increases of 8, 7 and 7 cents respectively. The increases are due chiefly to interest on new bonded indebtedness in respect of water, sewer and jail extensions.

You'll not mind the 50c when you understand!

WE are making out quite a number of little slips today!—slips about the size of a check—which announce that the sum of 50c has been deducted from the balance of certain of our customers.

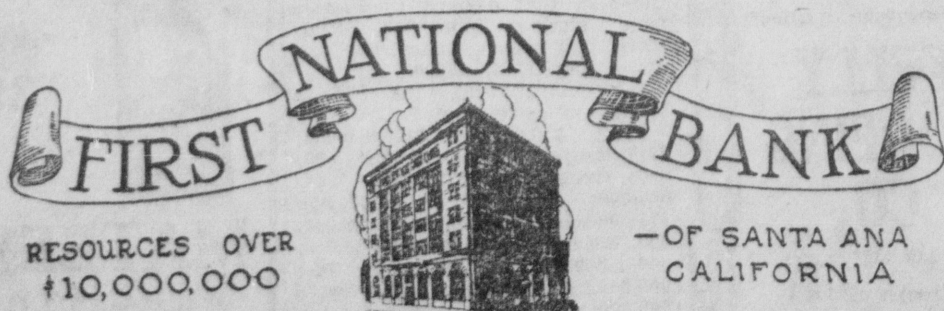

It's the little service charge for August—on accounts that have averaged less than $50 balance during the month.

We're not doing it for the purpose of making money, but to keep from LOSING money.

We have nothing to sell you except service—and service cannot be rendered below cost—no institution can afford to do that. We would like to continue serving these small accounts without charge in the hope that they may eventually become profitable. But it is not good business.

The 50c will not cover the cost in most cases—but at least you can feel that you are meeting us half the way, and we can both hope that you will soon be maintaining a balance upon which we can make a profit.

But, by all means, let us continue our happy relations.

SANTA BARBARA—James D. Phelan, former United States senator and administrator of relief funds after San Francisco's quake, has stirred the northern city to renewed activity in collecting Santa Barbara Relief funds with an appeal sent out from this city after his investigation here. San Francisco papers give prominence to Mr. Phelan's telegram to the effect that the needs of Santa Barbara are urgent and the duty of San Francisco in raising funds is clear. In Los Angeles and Southern California the drive for funds for Santa Barbara is moving slowly but steadily ahead, and while only a quarter of the Los Angeles county quota has been raised the drive leaders there are not discouraged and early returns from outside districts show that a substantial fund will be realized in collections from small communities.

CUCAMONGA—If every city of the southland doesn't know about the Cucamonga pioneer pageant it won't be the fault of the committee in charge of the affair. An elaborate program has been outlined by the committee, whereby atmospheric prologue for the pageant will be taken to Southern California and presented to the public so impressively that those who glimpse the pageant forerunner will be eager to see the entire spectacle Labor day. Through the courtesy of Hemet and Ramona pageant officials, the old historic Spanish "carita" or car and team of oxen, with driver have been offered to the Cucamonga pageant committee, and will be used extensively for advertising the September 7 event. The oxen and cart will be taken to cities from Riverside and Redlands to Pasadena, and driven through the main thoroughfares, with great banners inviting the world to Cucamonga on September 7.

GLENDAL—What is expected to be one of the largest religious gatherings ever held in this vicinity will convene at Glendale on Thursday next, when the Seventh-day Adventists of Southern California open their annual camp meeting, to continue to September 6. Facilities for the physical comfort and spiritual benefit of campers and visitors have been provided at an expenditure of $10,000, according to a statement by Rev. O. O. "KERNELS" BY THE COLONEL

"Dear Colonel:—How much good you could do if you would use your influence with Bry Williams and have the First National bank place plush davenport along the outside of the building. We get so tired standing there all day."
(Signed) "One of the Boys."

It was reported today in banking circles that the First National is thinking of giving a picnic for the "out side customers" in the near future. Invitations will be sent in care of the traffic officer on the corner.

Table cloths will be spread on the pavement around the building and a picnic eating contest will be held. The person who eats the most warts off pickles will be given free standing room, near the bank door for the next six months.

Old timers will be forced to leave their quids at home during the hours of the picnic, it was stated, but chewing gum will be served. Members of the Pacific Southwest Bank "club" across the street will also be invited, it was stated, so as not to cause any hard feelings among the "boys."

New officers for the coming year will be elected at the picnic and "standing" committees named. The new president of the organization will be the man who can tell the best "Way back in 1898" story and which must be dated back before the "club" moved the northwest corner to the present site.

Bank officials said today they had not determined whether to invite the persons who persist in parking in the center of the street at the post office.

WHAT AMERICA NEEDS MOST

"A shade other than Elk purple for flapper's dresses."

Part of a report seen at the sheriff's office.—"They have been missing a few rabbits every once in awhile. Got home last night in time to scare them away, as they were scattered all over the yard."

"Dear Kernel—I think the publicity agents nowadays must have the dits or some quarters and myself hid ourselves to the West End theater Saturday night to see "The White Man," on account of the "wonderful elephant hunt" in it, as per the little ditty in that night's Register. I give you my word of honor that we saw narry an elephant."

"And we didn't go to sleep either. One of the captions said that the hero had gone on such a hunt but that is all that happened. Nothing even happened to his sweetie in his absence. So many words wasted." F. R.

Society editor: "Listen, can I use 'ladies' in this story just one time?"
Copy desk (in unison): "No, you might have to prove it."

You've got to be "somebody" to get in the Orange county jail. Didn't the jailer turn down a man last night who wanted to serve five days for speeding? And just because he didn't have an invitation signed by the judge.

Every man in the jail is there for a reason and none is allowed in without the invitation from the judge. What do you call "society" or "caste"?

BUILDERS' QUERIES ANSWERED

By Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America

Q. Can collection be forced under a lien filed by an architect against an owner's property to secure the payment of a disputed bill for professional services?

A. If the lien is filed by the architect to collect for services rendered in connection with the property in question and the merits of the case show that the architect's claim is justified, we are of the opinion that collection can be made under the lien law.

Q. In a tract where I recently purchased lots, the streets are laid out on a curve and the property owners at the far end of the block are of the opinion that a mistake of two feet has been made in locating the original stakes, and consequently that the lots should be extended two feet. I want to know if the original stakes are guaranteed. If not, how is one to find out the actual lot lines?

A. While the stakes are supposed to be in proper location, it is possible that a mistake was made in setting them or perhaps they have been moved since being placed by the surveyors. County records show the exact lengths of lot lines, and all surveys are governed accordingly. The only way you can be sure of your lot lines is to have a resurvey made by a reliable surveyor, who will make the survey according to the county records.

Q. What is the best kind of plaster for use on a 10-year-old adobe house, one that will protect against drifting rain storms? A plaster is desired that will permanently adhere to the walls, be waterproof, and not subject to cracking or becoming unsightly. Please give instructions for applying.

A. A Portland cement plaster, or plasteite, which is waterproof Portland cement, is possibly the best plaster for the condition which you name. Plasteite makes a waterproof plaster, dense, hard, free from crazing if properly applied and attains more strength as time passes. If plaster is not applied to adobe properly, regardless of the product, within a short time, cracking will take place. In applying plasteite, furring strips should be applied over the adobe, over which should be placed metal lath. The first coat of plaster should be pushed through the lath to provide a good key. This should be allowed to become thoroughly dry, before applying the second coat and at least five days should elapse before the final coat is applied. The plaster should be mixed in proportion of one part Portland cement to three parts of sand.

AVIATOR TELLS OF TRAVEL ON RIFFIAN FRONT

Commander of the New American Lafayette Escadrille.

ON THE MOROCCAN EASTERN FRONT—(Via Paris)—Aug. 25.—"Don't go forward on that road. It is dangerous and easily lost, and if you go astray you'll fall into the hands of the enemy, who'll cut your throats after inflicting upon you the worst atrocities imaginable."

These words from a captain of the Spahis was our introduction to the road El Menzili, to Souk-Eh-Khemis. Dark had fallen an hour before, but we had decided to push on because it was necessary to join up with the column of Colonel Nogues that night if we wished to assist in the operations scheduled to start at daybreak.

Warns Against Taking Road.
"As you know," continued the captain, "all our patrols are withdrawn at nightfall and in Morocco there is no safely a hundred yards outside the barbed wire of the French posts. So I repeat, don't take that road."

We had left Fez—a staff captain and myself—after luncheon with General Maullin, for the purpose of joining Colonel Nogues' column. We should have arrived at 6 o'clock, but a combination of bad luck and minor accidents found us long after nightfall, still 20 kilometers from Souk-Eh-Khemis. Despite the captain's advice, we decided to push on.

"Light all your lamps and searchlights and push on as fast as you can—the Salopards may think you are an armed car and not molest you," was the parting advice of a cavalryman.

So off we went, blazing like a North River ferryboat, with the accelerator pushed to the limit, on an unknown and badly defined road in a hostile, enemy infested country, with no food, water and one automatic pistol for my chauffeur and myself.

Despite numerous bad bumps, all went well until we arrived within sight of what we took for the camp lights, blazing on three widely separated hills. Then, suddenly, the road was snuffed out. Straight across the fields toward the brightest light seemed our surest course. Bumping and swaying, we went on, until suddenly, crossing a dry river bed, we dropped two or three feet into sand over our hubs and stalled. There was nothing to do but pass the light in the open country. It was dangerous to approach the post on foot, because it was always surrounded by enemy sharpshooters.

Strays Into Enemy Country.
After wandering half an hour we found a bend in the perpendicular banks of the river bed, where we lay down to pass the night. Almost immediately there broke out behind us the usual orchestra of rifle and machine gun fire and savage yells, which indicated the presence of a French post, but showed us we had strayed ahead of the French outposts and into the heart of the enemy country.

This made us safe for the night, as the enemy would never think of looking for us in their territory. The dangerous hour would be daylight, when we would be forced to return through hostile territory, or await the arrival of the French advance columns.

The firing and yelling kept up all night, gradually petering out as dawn broke on our anxious eyes. The captain and I, carrying our valises, struck out boldly across the fields in the direction of the camp. Boldness is the best policy, offering absolutely no cover. An anxious quarter hour of walking and running, peppered at from three sides by bullets, brought us in contact with the advance elements of the French columns, who received us with cries of wonder and astonishment. We were passed back until we finally arrived at Col. Nogues' headquarters.

He could hardly believe his eyes at seeing us alive. He had been advised by wireless the night before that we were on our way, but as we had not arrived, he had believed us captured by the Salopards and never expected to see more of us than our mutilated bodies.

"You may consider yourselves lucky," he said after hearing our story. "Not ten men in the history of Morocco have passed a 'Blod' (open country) and lived to tell the tale."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL NEWS OF ORANGE

ORANGE, Aug. 27.—Mrs. A. H. Mulvane and daughter, Dora, who moved from Orange to Corona, are in Chicago this summer. They were called east by the illness of an uncle of Mrs. Mulvane. As he is now improved they are enjoying the fine art displays in Chicago. They expect to return September 10. Raymond Mulvane is a member of the boys' orchestra, consisting of thirty-seven pieces, under the leadership of E. H. Preston of San Bernardino. Raymond Mulvane received first training from Percy Richards and Vernon Shippee of the Orange high school.

Mrs. Leon DesLazars and little daughter, Alice, are expected home this week from the east, where they have been visiting in Iowa and Colorado during July and August.

Miss Grace Shultz of Claremont is a visitor of Mrs. Norval Moore of 335 North Orange street. Miss Shultz graduated from Pomona college with high honors, and was a teaching fellow in the college last year, having the freshman and sophomore classes in chemistry. Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hopkins of San Pedro, parents of Mrs. C. W. Meadows will come to Orange Saturday and join the Meadows family at their Arch Beach cottage over Sunday where they will have a family reunion and be joined by Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Stewart of Santa Ana.

Mrs. N. N. Jacobs and daughter, Vesta May, who have been visiting Mrs. Jacobs sister, Mrs. A. G. Ingle of 327 East Maple avenue, July and August, are leaving this week for their home in Palo Verde, Arizona.

Same fine One-Profit Coach -at a NEW REDUCED PRICE

INCREASED volume of sales—founded on Studebaker's policies of one-profit manufacture, and no yearly models—made it possible to reduce the price of this Standard Six Coach.

Already a wonderful value—a leader of the line—the lowest priced closed car ever sold by Studebaker—its previous low price has been cut one hundred dollars.

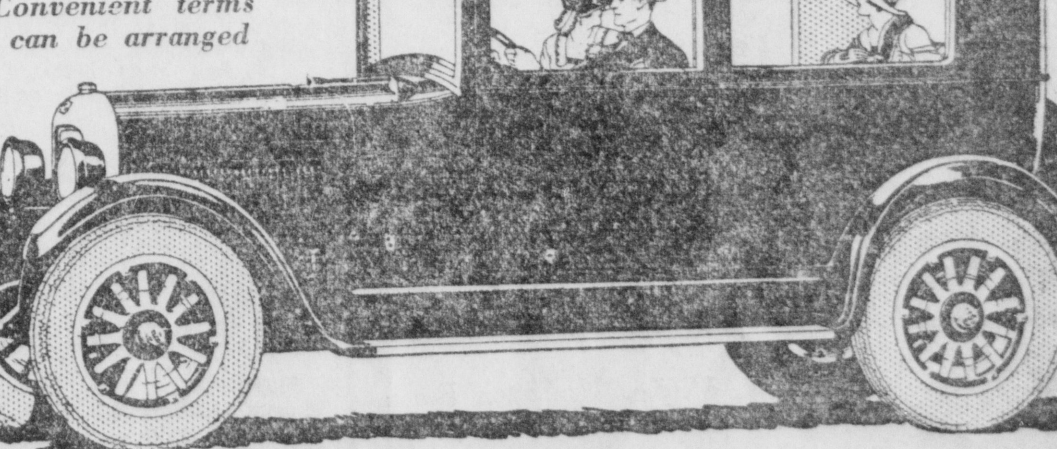

Many of the superiorities of this one-profit Coach are hidden until revealed by thousands of miles of usage. You can't see the fine workmanship inside the engine, nor behind the durable wool upholstery—the high-grade steel—the finest northern white ash and hard maple. But here are some things that you can check against competitive cars to satisfy yourself that this is a Studebaker of the same fine quality as before the price cut—a Studebaker more up to date than the newest yearly models.

POLY'S RIVALS GETTING READY FOR BIG YEAR

Coach Makes Statement On Return from Summer Work; Has Good Men

Followers of the old grid-iron feud which has existed between Santa Ana and Fullerton eleven years ago, will read with interest the first report of football prospects in the latter city. Coach Smith predicts that a 150-pound team will meet the Poly men this year.

FULLERTON, Aug. 27.—Football prospects for the Fullerton union high school are unusually bright for the coming year according to Coach S. S. "Shorty" Smith, who recently returned from a six week's course at Berkeley given by Andy Smith.

Smith said that a brilliant season is the outlook for the coming year, in spite of a discouraging lack of competent substitutes, and the absence of sufficient backfield material.

"Buddy" Forster, star quarterback, will be with the Fullerton coach said, and a great deal is expected during the coming year, the pected from the 135 pound player, as his end runs, and brilliant open field dashes were the sensation of every game in which he participated last year.

Loss of Dowling, star punter, will be keenly felt, Smith said, although two competent men will be developed in Captain Louis Rohrer and Forster. Both men did a portion of the kicking last year, and may easily be developed into excellent punters, according to the coach.

Comes Back for Season
Kendall Yorba, who played on the Fullerton team two years ago, and was forced to drop from school, will be with the team again during the coming season, and is expected to assist materially in building up the backfield. Although Yorba weighs only 145 pounds, he is an excellent fullback, and will probably play at that position during the season.

For ends on the team, Smith has Peterkin, who played last year; Gibson, a letterman, and Brande, who also received a letter for his services. Tackles include Nuttall, Carroll and Wills, while for guards he has Buxton, a star on last year's aggregation, Dunn, Hatfield and Davis. "Patches" French, last year's center, will again be with the team during the season, Smith said.

Captain to Play Back Position
The Fullerton backfield includes Captain Rohrer, at half, Yorba at full, and Forster at quarter. Smith has not, as yet discovered a player to fill the other halfback berth, and is searching for a player who can be developed for this important position.

The team will average between 150 and 155 pounds, according to the coach, and he will rely upon speedy plays to gain ground. The three available backfield men are excellent passers, and are expected to do good work in this department of the game.

Practice for the players will begin on the opening day of school, September 14, according to the coach. All possible players are gradually conditioning themselves through light training, and will be ready for the county league schedule when it is opened.

Biltmore Man to Aid Fairway Fans
Golfing activities at the Fairway Country club, near Villa Park, will be under supervision of Howard Beall, golf instructor for the Biltmore hotel, according to announcement made by club officials today.

Mr. Beall, who was instructor at the public course at Portland, Oregon, before coming to Los Angeles, is an experienced instructor and player, having had much playing experience in England. He gives talks on golf on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the broadcasting station of KFWB.

Appointments for instruction may be made with the club secretary, Mr. T. H. Eljah, who is now permanently located at the club.

Earthquake Fails To Wreck Machine

Although a large number of bricks and a quantity of concrete fell on it, a Maytag washing machine in the Schluter store in Santa Barbara went through the earthquake without being damaged, it is asserted by A. T. Riley, manager of the Schluter branch in the Grand Central Market building here.

This is an indication of the strength and durability of the machine, Riley declares.

When the debris was cleared away, it was found that the machine still was capable of functioning, Riley says. Pictures of the machine are being displayed at the local agency.

Marksman Wins In Handicap Shoot

DAYTON, O., Aug. 27.—Steve Crothers, Chestnut Hills, Pa., shot his way to a new world's record of 436 straight targets in the Grand American Handicap Shoot at Vandalia yesterday.

Crothers finished with a 497 out of possible 500.

DOUGHERTY IS CONFIDENT OF JACK'S EXIT VISITING MEN GIVE PIRATES CONSIDERATION

By FAIR PLAY
By Special Leased Wire to The Register (Copyright, 1925)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Men interested in fighting are getting so fed up on the Dempsey-Willis circus that it is not good form to talk about it any more. But one last up and down slant at the champion of the world will probably get by.

It comes from Jimmy Dougherty, who has just returned from the West Coast and had a talk with Dempsey before he left. It is well known that Dougherty is a good friend of Dempsey's and that he was the third man in the ring at Shelby, having been brought out from the East by Kearns.

Dougherty, incidentally, is the manager of the big black fighter, George Godfrey, and quite naturally he is trying to take advantage of the present situation by inserting his man into the mix-up.

"Last winter when I was on the Coast," said Dougherty, "he assured me he was not going to fight or go into the ring again. Now he has changed his mind and in the last talk I had with him, he said he might fight Willis but was not sure about it. He headed that he might, on the other hand, 'My advice to him was never to fight again. In my judgment Jack is through and cannot fight and last winter he acknowledged to me that he had been going back ever since he beat Willard. He proved this was the truth by the way he fought such men as Brennan, Carpenter, Firpo and Gibbons."

"But in my last talk with him, he seemed in a very doubtful frame of mind, one minute wanting to fight, the next not knowing what he wants to do. My own belief, as I told him, was that he is through and ought not to do battle any more."

Dougherty points with pride to the showing of George Godfrey in the past year and will make the best of terms to Willis, Tunney or whatever good man is willing to get into the ring with George.

He says Willis has been dodging Godfrey for a long time and the fact seems to be that Harry has not shown any great eagerness to face his blacker opponent.

Benny Leonard, retired lightweight king, has decided, as this writer has been predicting all along, to "come back." This comes despite the touching stories of how he retired in response to the tearful pleas of his mother. But don't get too worked up over the idea of Benny stopping in and knocking the synthetic lightweight crown off the head of Jimmy Goodrich. Leonard is after bigger game to witness: The welter crown of Mickey Walker.

Woman Golfer Is High In Tourney

WHITE BEAR, Minn., Aug. 27.—Mrs. Joseph Horn, Chicago favorite of the galleries at the women's western golf tournament, yesterday eliminated Mrs. Curtis Sohl, Columbus, 3 and 1, in the second round at the White Bear Yacht club.

Mrs. Lee Mida defeated Mrs. John Worley, Los Angeles, 3 and 2.

Eight survivors of the first two rounds of match play teed off in the tournament here today to reduce the field further for the semi-final round tomorrow.

Richards Wins In Semi-Finals Play

BROOKLYN, Mass., Aug. 27.—Vincent Richards of New York and N. Norris Williams II of Bryn Mawr, Pa., American Davis cup players, yesterday won their way into the semi-finals of the national tennis doubles tournament by eliminating the Spanish Davis cup combination of Manuel Alonso and Eduardo Flaquer. The score was 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

It was a hard fought battle from start to finish, featured by the superior playing of Richards and admirable support offered by his team mate, Williams.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

PURELY IN JEST
Umpiring isn't all serious, the arbitrators do have their happy moments even if they are greatly in the minority.

"Red" Faber, star pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, was recently the victim of a retort courteously handed him by Umpire George Hildebrand.

Despite the fact that the bases were filled at the time and only one out, Faber enjoyed the wise crack enough to have a good laugh, regardless of the critical situation he was facing.

Now Faber, as a rule, is one of those pitchers who accepts the rulings of the umpires with little or no objection. He lets the umpires umpire while he does his best to pitch.

In the inning I have reference to "Brick" Owens, working the plate, had passed two men with the count three balls and two strikes. In each instance the final pitch was just a trifle low.

Naturally Faber would have much preferred striking out the two men rather than have them walk. By his actions he made it apparent that he didn't quite agree with "Brick" on the two rulings.

"So you have turned umpire at last," remarked Owens, who was rather surprised, also a bit peeved, at Faber's attitude. Hildebrand was working back of the pitcher at the time, while I was parked at third base. Almost before Faber had had a chance to digest Brick's remarks, Hildebrand added:

"And he's still a much better pitcher than umpire." A polite way of letting Faber know that Owens was right in his rulings. Faber offered no further protest.

DRAW RESULTS IN BATTLE AT HARBOR CLUB

Kid Mexico and Hank Gatton, middleweights, fought a fast fight, lasting eight rounds, to a draw at Wilmington's first anniversary show last night. Gatton started up like a whirlwind, but Kid Mexico's superior experience and headwork evened up the count in the latter stages of the battle.

Both men displayed admirable combat qualities. Gatton, in his usual rugged style was not ruffled much by the stiff punches administered by the Kid, but a couple more rounds would have meant a general exhaustion for both fighters, probably, as their draw came only after continual whacking, marked with few clinches. The Kid was in good form, but not quite as good as he has been seen in previous conflicts.

Allie Nelson, a former Idaho product, showed extreme weariness and played the gloves all over Kid Kopecks. Nelson won his bout without a great deal of effort, but with a pretty display of fireworks every so often.

Trench King, famed for his blows came out best in his bout with Pico Ramies, popular harbor boy. Pico did his best to avoid some of the heavies which King delivered but could not withstand them all.

Battling Ivy, a good second stage performer, received a referee's verdict over Charlie Wier in a six round bout.

The boxing program marked the first anniversary of the Wilmington club and the quality of the events spoke well for the athletic organization which has just finished a successful year of sports.

FISH CLOSES CAREER WITH LEAP TO BOAT

The best true fish story that has come to Santa Ana for sometime arrived today with C. Y. Martin, father of the well-known Glenn Martin, airplane manufacturer, who returned this week from a vacation at Big Bear Lake.

Martin was in a motorboat cruising around with line out, trying to attract some poor fish when he was startled by a big jerk on the string. The fish, a four-pound rainbow trout, was hauled in as fast as the reel would turn, but the fish proved too speedy for the winding gears. It dashed under the motorboat and came up on the opposite side, and this is true—jumped, and fell broadside in the bottom of Martin's boat. Fishline was all over the vicinity, and the prize was captured amid the laughter of nearby fishermen.

Martin says his only witnesses were fishermen themselves but vouches for the truth of the rare event. In the future, it is possible that he will not bother with landing nets.

L. A. Mermaids In Win at Pasadena

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—Women swimmers representing the Los Angeles Athletic club scored a convincing victory over swimmers of other Southern California clubs last night when they won the first annual all-women's aquatic meet at Pasadena.

The Mercury scored 31 points, Pasadena was second with 9, Florence Chambers club of San Diego tied for third with the Hollywood Athletic club with 13 points each, and the club Casa Del Mar was fourth with four.

Florence Chambers of San Diego won the 100 yard backstroke, the 100 yard medley, and took second in the 220 yard swim. Viola Hartman, L. A. A. C., staged a thrilling race to win the latter event.

Slugs Ball Over Fence, Ends Game

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—Buzz Arlett, Oakland left fielder, broke up yesterday's baseball game with Vernon at Washington park when he drove one of Ed Bryant's fast home runs over the deep center fence for a home run, scoring one of his teammates. The final score was 6 to 5. Kunz pitched the Oakland victory.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

California Boxing Receipts

Since the advent of the new boxing law, the fight profession in California has developed into a million dollar industry.

Figures released today by the state athletic commission show that during the past seven months ending August 1, the supporters of the mainly art have contributed $992,039.35 in gate receipts.

Walter A. Yarwood, secretary of the commission, estimates that approximately 60 per cent of this amount was paid to the fighters. The state's 5 per cent tax on the gate receipts amounted to $42,297.85. Since January 1 a total of 929,081 persons paid money to witness boxing exhibitions, the commission's tabulations show.

The commission believes that from a financial standpoint, at least, ten-round and twelve-round boxing has proven a distinct success. While comparative figures are not available, Yarwood expresses a belief that the amount of money taken in at the fights during the past seven months is greater than in any other like period in the history of the sport in California.

RED CEDAR LAKE, Wis.—Willie MacFarlane and Jim Barnes, American and British open champions, will meet at the Tagalong course here today in an unofficial world's championship golf match.

Piping 'Em Off

Yesterday's Hero—Johnny Rawlings, Pittsburgh substitute, hit a homer and helped score another run with a single, beating the Braves, 2 to 0.

Meusel's homer gave the Giants a 6 to 5 victory in the first game, but the Reds won the second game in the 13th when Caveney drove in a run with a single.

Cantrell's good pitching helped the Robins to a 4 to 2 victory over the Cards and moved them back into fourth place.

The Yanks filled the bases in the first inning with none out, but failed to score off Red Faber, and the White Sox won, 1 to 0.

Thirteen hits off five pitchers enabled the Browns to beat the Senators, 11 to 8.

Cochran's double and two infield hits scored the only run the Athletics could get off Ullie and the Indians won, 8 to 1.

Whitehill won his fourth game in a row for the Tigers when he beat the Red Sox 10 to 2.

The Phillies moved up into sixth place when they copped from the Cubs, 12 to 2. Keen was knocked out of the box for the second time in successive days.

MAN SERIOUSLY INJURED WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

John Thompson, 45, carpenter, of Garden Grove, is in a serious condition in the Orange County hospital, as a result of injuries received at 8:15 last night, when the machine he was driving collided with a car driven by Glen Clark, 318 Jacaranda avenue, Fullerton.

The accident occurred on the Stearns road, near the Orange County hospital, when Thompson was driving east on a side road, and Clark, who was driving west, turned into the road from a side road.

Clark said he was driving east on the Stearns road at a speed of 35 miles an hour, when the Thompson car suddenly entered the road from a side road. The crash which followed forced the Thompson car into an orange grove. The Clark car was overturned on the highway, according to the report. Clark escaped injury.

Physicians who treated the injured man at the hospital declare he is suffering from a fracture of the skull, and although his condition was reported as improved today, it is regarded as most serious, it was said.

Police News

Found asleep in a box car on the Santa Fe tracks, at 10:45 last night, Officer Fair, 56, was arrested by Chief James Murray. He was lodged in jail.

HECKE PERIODICALLY GOES TO STATE FARMERS

Crop conditions in California are better this year than last and prices to the producers more favorable, George H. Hecke, head of the state department of agriculture, who was in Santa Ana today for a conference with A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, relative to matters connected with department work, declared.

"California farmers, generally speaking, are going to have a good year," said Hecke. "While some sections have suffered from climatic conditions, the state as a whole is in fine shape."

"While frost and wind damaged some orchards in Southern California, the growers whose fruit was not damaged are receiving almost double what was paid last year. The demand for California products, is steadily increasing."

"The farmers in the north are most optimistic. They have had plenty of rain and look for splendid crops."

Hecke was accompanied to Santa Ana by R. S. Woglum, entomologist with the California Fruit Growers Exchange, and Dr. E. M. Keef, director of animal industry of the state department of agriculture.

Woglum is starting a series of tests to determine the value of the various insect sprays being used in the various county orchards. He also will investigate the mealy bug situation.

A special meeting of horticultural commissioners, to discuss various federal and state laws, will be held in Los Angeles tomorrow, Hecke said.

Hecke was accompanied to Santa Ana by R. S. Woglum, entomologist with the California Fruit Growers Exchange, and Dr. E. M. Keef, director of animal industry of the state department of agriculture.

Woglum is starting a series of tests to determine the value of the various insect sprays being used in the various county orchards. He also will investigate the mealy bug situation.

Grove Man Picked As Secretary Of Placentia Chamber

PLACENTIA, Aug. 27.—Thomas Pickerrill, former chamber of commerce secretary in Garden Grove, has been selected by the Placentia Chamber of Commerce to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Charles E. Lee, former secretary. Lee resigned to accept a position with the Fresno Chamber of Commerce.

A resolution commending the work of Lee was adopted at a recent meeting of the Placentia civic body. At that same meeting the annual financial report was made, showing the finances of the organization to be in excellent condition.

Pickerrill will assume his duties here September 1.

NEW YORK IN BITTER CLASH ON MAYORALTY

HAVENHILL, Mass., Aug. 27.—York is breaking out with political signs and banners, the pictures of red fires of the east side have been lighted and marching bands have begun to fill the night air with pep and jazz. And still there is something lacking in the mayoral campaign. Everybody seems to be waiting for Al Smith. When he takes off his coat and goes to work, when the bands turn around the side, and the torchlights begin to burn and flicker, then the campaign will really be under way. Opening guns have been fired and all that sort of thing. But the guns have merely popped and there has been nothing in the sound.

New York is waiting for its own Al Smith to come on down from Albany and stir up the animals. This he promised to do this week. Then the fur will begin to fly. Thus far in the campaign, it must be stated candidly and in all fairness, Mayor Hylan has been holding his own with his enemies. When it comes to common or garden denouncing, the mayor is very handy with a pair of jaws that click and clatter like a crowded subway express. And the mayor has been denouncing all and sundry, the "crumblers" and "thieves" of Wall street are his particular pet subjects for denunciation. Judge Olvany, the new leader of Tammany Hall, received marked attention at the hands of the mayor, and Senator James J. Walker, the Tammany-nominated opponent of the mayor in the primaries, got his from time to time. Eventually the mayor will begin to denounce the "silk stocking" section of Manhattan and the "bronx."

He is pinning his hopes of victory on carrying Brooklyn by a substantial majority and by sweeping both Long Island City and Staten Island. Brooklyn is the mayor's home borough. Tammany has Manhattan island in its paw and the same is true of the Bronx, whose marvelous growth in the last few years has been contributed largely by the population of the Bronx island.

Manhattan and the Bronx—sometimes called the cocktail boroughs, appear to stand very close together regarding Brooklyn. Long Island City and Staten Island are classed as suburban.

Brooklyn is the mayor's county, "rural" territory. King's county, Long Island City and its environs as Queen's and Staten Island as Richmond.

In the eyes of Wall street, the mayor's chances for renomination and re-election are dwindling. The brokers down in the "den of iniquity" see the mayor calls it, are wiser to waver 3 to 1 that their friend "Red Mike," a somewhat popular designation of the mayor in these strenuous campaign days, will not attain his third-term goal.

Wall street, of course, is not offering and publication of the odds undoubtedly has a certain psychological effect. This is best attested by the fact that the candidates against whom the odds are offered generally get as mad as owls as they read the daily quotations in the papers.

Will Hylan Ignore Smith? What New York is anxious to know is how the mayor proposes to deal with Al Smith when the governor takes the stump. Some of the mayor's friends say he will ignore the governor and do that, a swiftest of hand in doing that, as several opponents in the past know to their sorrow. And yet, if Hylan attacks Al Smith before a hornet's nest on his hands, Al Smith is just as popular in Brooklyn as he is in Manhattan.

There is another candid statement to be made about this campaign. If Al Smith were not in it, Hylan does all that he has promised to do, the mayor will be defeated.

It follows, therefore, that Hylan Democrats must find some way of trying to offset what "Al" hopes to do.

A Hack Crossing Scheme. Hylan has begun by attacking the governor's scheme of eliminating grade crossings through the state by a bond issue which will permit the state to share the expense with the railroads.

The attack has brought quick retaliation from several state senators in greater New York who have inclined to fight for Hylan, but have leaped at his throat for his attack upon the governor.

Wherever Hylan hits Smith, the same comeback is likely to occur. Therefore the mayor is very much up to a very large-sized tree and doesn't know exactly how to get down.

Seize Two Vessels Laden With Liquor

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 27.—The government patrol ship Winnie, Capt. A. R. Bittencourt, commander, came into port here with two American craft in tow, one the M-846, with about 180 other liquor aboard, and the other, the M-438, with nearly 500 cases below her hatches.

The seizure was made off D'Arcy island, and two ships were taken for information of the customs act, being found without satisfactory papers or reasons in Canadian waters.

The boats and cargoes probably will be confiscated. The owners of the craft are not known.

LUMBER MILLS BUSY

PORTLAND.—The mills of the West Coast Lumbermen's association manufactured 102,848,662 feet in the last week, sold 111,139,341 feet, shipped 102,500,164 feet. The western pine manufacturers made 33,311,000 feet, shipped 33,281,000 and received orders for 23,455,000.

Financial and Market News

WALL ST. JOURNAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Stocks appeared to have benefited from Wednesday's rally. The market was generally heavy. Apples are weaker; grapes and figs are about steady, while peaches and bananas are firmer. Onions continue weak in tomato's dealings. Interests are working for higher prices were encouraged by the indications of substantial buying of home grown in addition to the reaction brought to light.

Prices were easily the feature of the railroad group, pushing through par to record territory in anticipation of dividend increases next week. U. S. Steel continued to give signs of impressive accumulation, a factor which indicated buying of other standard industrials despite disposition displayed by many traders to await the outcome of the afternoon's meeting of the local federal reserve bank's directors.

The market closed higher. Closing prices included: U. S. THE DAHLIA SHOW

Mrs. L. T. Wiley, president of the Buena Park Woman's club, asks The Register to urge the dahlia growers of Orange county to exhibit their flowers at the Third Annual Orange County Dahlia Show, to be given at Buena Park September 1st, under the auspices of the Woman's club.

We are pleased indeed to comply with Mrs. Wiley's request, and we pass her appeal for support of the Orange County Dahlia Show on to our readers, with our own urgent appeal added thereto.

The enterprise and ambition of Buena Park to put on a countywide dahlia show annually is richly deserving of general support on its own account, and certainly a dahlia show—any kind of a flower show—is worthy of general support on account of its cultural value to the entire citizenship of the county. Not only does it cultivate in the minds and hearts of the people a love of the beautiful, but it creates in them an ambition to surround themselves with beautiful flowers in their own home gardens and yards.

There are many very successful dahlia growers all over the county, and especially in Santa Ana, and nothing could be more graceful and gracious and neighborly than for all parts of the county, and especially the big town, to show their friendliness by making exhibits at Buena Park.

THE ACCENT ON THE "O"

Just as we were getting so that we could pronounce gladiolus four times out of five with the emphasis on "di" along come the American Gladiolus society and knocks out the accent on "di" and puts it on the "o" where it used to be when you and I were young, Maggie.

This society ought to know how to pronounce gladiolus as well as grow them. We say "them" advisedly, for this same society has decreed that henceforth it will not be necessary to change the spelling for the plural. Gladiolus will stand for the singular and the plural alike, hereafter and forever unchangeable so far as the members of the society are concerned.

The pronunciation and the spelling of the plural came up for animated discussion at the annual exhibition and convention of the American Gladiolus society this month in Rochester, N. Y. The discussion was animated, but the decision was practically unanimous in favor of the accent on "o" and for spelling the plural gladiolus instead of gladioli.

We are not going to quarrel with this society, though it may take us five years more to get back regularly to their way of saying the word, for we always did like gladiolus, with the emphasis on the "o." We wonder, though, that they failed to offer a reward for the destruction of the disturber who told the nation that gladiolus with the "o" on top was all wrong.

As to the plural, that, too, is satisfactory. Would now, however, that some national society would come along and get everybody straight on the plural of stratum and phenomenon, or possibly, give us permission to make it strata and phenomena for singular and stratas and phenomenons for plural.

THE OVERPRODUCTION FALLACY

Automatic machinery, argues a newspaper reader, is throwing many people out of work. He refers to a new machine recently installed in the factory where he is employed, which does the work of four men. "Four men," he remarks, "are out of work." He continues:

"The new machine produces twice as much, which ruin to a large group. The factory produces more than can be assimilated by the people.

"If automatics are installed in all factories, thousands—hundreds of thousands—will be thrown out of work. That is the great industrial problem."

Here is simply another statement of one of the oldest economic fallacies—the fallacy that there is only about so much work to do in the world, and that if it is done by machines, it necessarily throws men out of work and impoverishes them.

It can easily be shown that the opposite is true—that workmen have benefitted immensely from the multiplication of labor-saving machinery, so that the average workman today obtains a far better living, and can accumulate far more wealth, with fewer hours' work, than workmen could in former ages.

Overproduction is not "the great industrial problem" today. There is no such thing as overproduction, in industry as a whole, though there may be temporarily in this or that industry.

The great industrial problem is not production, but distribution. The thing required is not to cut down production by eliminating machinery, but to keep on increasing the machinery power, producing still more while easing manual toil—and to see that there is maintained a proper balance between industries.

Has anyone too many of the necessities, comforts and conveniences of life made possible by modern industry? Everybody should be producing all the time, for everybody else, thereby helping and enriching all. The big need of the time is economic statesmanship, to keep distribution of products working smoothly, thus keeping everybody at work making things in exchange for the things he gets. So far, distribution has been too expensive, too much subject to accident and too much interfered with by politics.

INCOME FROM MUSCLE SHOALS

Uncle Sam at last is deriving some revenue from Muscle Shoals. Nitrate Plant No. 2 is operating at capacity, under the lease held by the Alabama Power Company, and turning into the federal treasury $2,500 a day. This, if continued steadily, would mean about three-quarters of a million a year. It is not much, measured by the expenditures at Muscle Shoals, but is a good start toward paying operation.

An interesting phase is the fact that this nitrate plant is not producing nitrate, but is turning its electric power direct into the super-power system which feeds Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. It is needed especially at present, because other sources of hydro-electric power have been affected by drought and low water.

It has been questioned whether the plant would ever be of much use to make fertilizer, as was expected originally. It may develop that the best use of this plant and also the big power plant connected with the Wilson Dam at the Shoals will be simply to pour their energy into a big super-power system to feed southern industry. If so, other means will have to be provided somehow for the fertilizer needs of southern agriculture.

Expanding Fruit Markets

San Bernardino Sun

Practically every year some improvement is made in the marketing of fruit which expands the markets for various California products. The tremendous production and sale of both citrus and deciduous fruits of this State in their fresh state in all the cities of the United States is a result of such improvements. Those who can think back as far as half a century, to the beginnings of the fruit shipping industry, remember how small was the orchard area and how hopeless it was to look for a profitable market in the east. The time of transportation was long; the packing was poor; the handling of the fruit at the other end for disposition to retailers was bad; so much of it spoiled before it reached the consumer that the growers seldom received the cost of transportation and often had to pay for it more than they received for the fruit.

Year by year these unfavorable conditions were changed. Every detail of cultivation, picking, packing, transportation and marketing the fruit has been improved. The result is that many thousands of acres are in orchard which would not have been, population has multiplied, the wealth of the State has become enormous and the development process is still going on. Half a billion dollars for the fruit crop alone is something worth while. Yet there are still other things to be done to place on eastern stands some of the more tender fruits, whose days are not so long as some of the others. Also longer keeping of fruit in good condition extends the market to more distant points.

The wonderful California pear has been restricted in its field because of limitation of time in which it remains in good condition. A new treatment for it has just been adopted which enables it to be sent to market anywhere in the world. It consists of being hermetically sealed in a can, in which a complete vacuum has been created. People with money are willing to pay anything within reason for fruits out of season where they live or of better quality. This new process promises to create many new markets, not alone for California pears, but for all fruits too tender for ordinary shipment, for which there is demand elsewhere, thus largely expanding the orchard area of the State.

Slaughter by Guns

Bakersfield Californian

The New Mexican editor who aimed at his old foe and killed a bystander must stand trial for manslaughter, if not for murder. The fact that his enemy was pummeling him with his fists, not with a gun, will be evidence for the prosecution. The editor may plead that he had to carry a gun to protect his life. The fact has been proven that he did not need the gun when he used it.

A Taft policeman shot two boys, his prisoners. He faces three criminal charges, two based on this shooting, one on a previous incident in his enforcement of law. No one denies the right of a policeman to carry a gun, or to use it when needful. The question is, was this shooting necessary? Yearly, hospitals report the death of hundreds of hunters, most of them killed while handling firearms carelessly. Many of these hunters are young men and boys, insufficiently trained in the use of weapons.

They take a bitter toll, these pistols, revolvers, shotguns, rifles. Lawmakers appear indifferent. Administrators of law relax vigilance, and allow violation of such laws as have been made. Sometimes, from long dealing with criminals, officers lose their sense of the value of human life. Then they become more dangerous than the criminals they hunt. London police are not allowed to carry guns.

Demand plenty of laws which shall say: who may bear firearms, and when; what provocations shall give the right to shoot in self-defense; that owners of firearms shall prove their fitness to use them.

Demand, finally, that both policemen and licensed civilians who bear arms shall be trained in discretion as well as in that kind of bravery which is cheap at best, and bears an ugly likeness to murder.

Oil Trade Affects Canal

Long Beach Press-Telegram

Signal Hill gave the Panama Canal its first big profits. Oil shipments through the isthmian waterway swelled the Government's returns for tonnage to the extent that the fiscal year ending in June, 1924, showed a larger aggregate revenue than that of any other year since the canal was opened. No one need be surprised, then, when told that the business of the canal for the fiscal year ending in June, 1925, showed a falling off. So was there a decrease in the shipment of oil from Signal Hill.

This admittedly is the cause of the decline in the financial returns of the canal for the last fiscal period. In nearly all of the commodities carried through the canal there was a gain. However, the loss of oil cargo overbalances the gain of other consignments, and leaves a net loss of about 3,000,000 tons as compared with the preceding year, when the total tonnage was nearly 27,000,000. For the twelve months ending June 30, 1925, 4,673 vessels passed through the canal, carrying 23,994,710 tons of cargo, exclusive of ships in the direct service of the United States Government, including merchant vessels under Federal charter. The decrease in toll charges was $2,890,000.

Long Beach will have further opportunity to contribute to the prosperity of the Panama Canal and the income of the Federal Government, by the establishment here of a deep water port which will encourage shipping of every type. Trade of a more permanent nature than oil will be originated here in increasing volume as local manufacturing is encouraged.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

ABUSE OF SWEETS DANGEROUS

One hundred years ago the consumption of sugar was only about 11 pounds per person, Mrs. Mann learned in her study of sweets.

Today the annual consumption has reached 86 pounds per person and the price is going up all the time. In European countries less than one-third of this amount is consumed.

"The abuse of sweets is the besetting dietetic sin," Mrs. Mann quoted.

Much of this sugar is consumed in the form of candy. Mothers give their children candy when they should give them a plain nutritious food.

Craving for sweets is acquired this way, and the child, after he has grown up, continues eating candy, making his coffee half sugar and refusing to eat fruits if they are not sweetened to the limit.

The body requires a certain amount of sugar in some form. But it is better to take more of this sugar in the form of its natural state in fruits and certain vegetables.

Cane sugar is somewhat irritating to the digestive tract. It easily undergoes fermentation when the digestion is impaired, thus causing the formation of gas.

Brawn and Beauty are Not Handicaps To Genius

San Francisco Chronicle

Traditionally the child of genius is puny, sickly and freakish, but Professor Lewis M. Terman, head of the psychology department of Stanford university, declared that this is a superstition that needs to be unlearned. He finds that superior children are as a class heavier, better nourished and healthier than the "common run" of children of their own age.

Professor Terman reached his conclusion after making an intensive study of 1400 children who ranked as brightest among 25,000 selected at random in the public schools of California. It upsets notions the world has held tenaciously time out of mind that nature is compensatory and that where she lavishes health and strength and beauty she withholds quickness of perception and mental solidity.

Dr. Terman finds that precocious children are better proportioned physically and more stable nervously. There is nothing freakish or irregular in their abilities. They enjoy the same games and play with the same zest as other children of their own age, although there is a predilection for games with thinking in them. They are not lacking in social adaptability and there is no reason to believe that they are lacking in qualities of leadership.

The Greeks held perfection to lie in the co-ordination of a healthy mind and a healthy body. There has been a popular notion, however, that where superiority in either function is developed it is at the expense of the other. From this grew up a habit of speaking scornfully of the gray matter of the typical hero of the gridiron or of the lady whose form and feature graced the silver screen.

Dr. Terman shows they may be geniuses.

NIGHTFALL

Beyond the hedge, the sky is amber clear.
Only moon daisies pile their drifts of foam
When the dim trees to dimmer pastures sink.

Soft-footed, swifter than a dawn-caught ghost—
Gray wolves of twilight slink.

Before the stealthy menace of the dusk
Like warden torches of some camping host

From the far distance, pansy dark, a flight
Of swiftly homing wild duck, arrow straight,
Springs from the faint horizon where the sky
Beneath the slow triumphant smile of night
Keeps its inviolate blue.

Agnes Mary Lawrence in the Weekly Westminster Gazette.

Time to Smile

MISUNDERSTOOD

The wife of an English professor was taking a friend around the show places of the ancient estate recently acquired by her husband. One of the features of the garden was a noble yew hedge of great age. In the niches cut in this hedge were statues, some of them reproductions of famous ones. Pointing towards the hedge, the gentleman said, "Is that yew, Mrs. B—?" "Oh, no," replied Mrs. B., blushing slightly, "that's the Venus of Medicine."—Argonaut.

Edsel Ford said at a Dearborn dinner: "Blame the automobilist when the blame is his, but remember that the pedestrian is often blameworthy, too." "When I think of the thousands of pedestrians who disobey the rules of the road and pay the penalty, I can't help saying to myself: 'A fool is born every minute, but the automobile gets them sooner or later.'—Detroit Free Press.

IN FAST COMPANY

Two men were discussing horse racing, and one remarked upon the inappropriate names often given the horses. "If I had a race horse," he said, "I would give him a fitting name." "What would you call him?" asked the other. "Money," was the answer. "But that's absurd, isn't it?" "No, I don't think so. Do you know anything that goes faster?"

Little Benny's Note Book

by Lee Pope

I was taking a wawk with Mary Watkins not going enywhere speshil, and we started to pass a yard with a little iron fence around it, and Mary Watkins sed, O look in there at the row of beautiful red apples rite out on the window sill, I wonder if they put them out there for people to take one?

G wizz, certeny not, they'd of put them out on the front steps if they'd had eny sutch idee as that, I sed. Thinking, Gosh, I aint going to clime over there and take one for her, wats she think I am?

Proving Im a good mind reader, and she sed, Well maybe they thawt it would make it too easy if they put them out on the front steps, maybe they jest meen for people to take them if they have the ambition to clime over this fence, properly.

And she stood there looking at them anxious, me saying, Aw, their private apples, nobody aint sipposed to take them.

Then properly they put them there for the berds to take, Mary Watkins sed.

Aw G wizz, berds dont eat apples, I sed, and she sed, Yes they do, too, and do you meen to say Im not as good as a berd, Benny Potts?

Certeny you are, did I say you county. The citrus property was comparision, I sed, and she sed, Well I dont care, you must think Im not as good as a berd if you wont clime over that little fence and get me an apple, if Puds Simkins was heer he'd get one for me all rite.

Aw G, Ill get you one, I sed. And I climbed over and wawked up to the window sill and was jest reetching up for a apple wen some lady poked her face out of the window saying, Wat do you want, wat are you doing in heer, answer me? Wich jest then I herd somebody running, sounding like Mary Watkins, being jest who it was, and I sed, Does Mrs. Skitzer live heer? Being somebody I never even herd of, and she sed, No she dont and neither do you, and you get rite out or Ill throw water on you.

Wich I quick did, and Mary Watkins wasser enywhere in site. Proving me people that get you in trouble dont allways stay there with you.

Go State Expenses

San Bernardino Sun

Interesting figures of state expenses have developed in the discussion of the new high total of $73,796,620.91 announced by R. L. Riley, state controller, as the cost of government during the fiscal year that ended June 30.

The San Francisco Chronicle has compiled a table of figures showing the trend of state expense since the fiscal year that ended in 1910. This table, plus the listing of the governor during each year, follows:

1911	14,672,047	Johnson
1912	16,936,277	Johnson
1913	18,502,456	Johnson
1914	22,147,136	Johnson
1915	25,306,325	Johnson
1916	25,645,873	Johnson
1917	28,507,103	Johnson
1918	29,053,458	Stephens

The figures tell of an interesting story: that regardless of the attitude of the chief executive on public expenditures it has been impossible to decrease state expenses or even prevent an increase. During the seven years that Hiram W. Johnson was in office the expense increased from $14,886,850 to $28,507,103, a jump of about $12,000,000 in the seven year period. William D. Stephens saw the increase from $28,507,103 to $60,521,383, a jump of approximately $34,000,000 during his six years. Friend W. Richardson has seen an increase of from $60,521,383 to $73,796,620, a jump of $13,000,000 during two years.

Control of Riley has predicted state expenses will advance at the rate of about $10,000,000 a year. Governor Richardson's attitude toward governmental expenses is well known. He has talked much against extravagance.

Public expenditures follow the demand of people for service. Government costs just like any other endeavor. When a private business adds a new department or expands an old one, increased costs are anticipated and provided for. The same is true of government. Additional activities add to taxes.

A great campaign is getting under way in the nation to educate people to demand lower state and local taxes, the same as they were educated to seek lower federal taxes, and it will be interesting to determine whether such a campaign will make an impression upon the situation. In California the principal items of expense are schools and highways. There is no indication at all that a majority of the people would support curtailment in the expenses of either of these two major items. There is developing out of the reductions at Washington, however, increased pressure for curtailments and in addition budgets and public information regarding expenditures. There is a greater demand than ever before for a dollar in service for every dollar of taxes.

IN THE LONG AGO

14 Years Ago Today From the Register Files

AUGUST 27, 1911

A run of more than 700 tons of sugar was reported by the Southern California Sugar company. The factory officials said this was the biggest single production for a day that they had ever known here.

S. S. Finley, Harry W. Lewis and C. S. Crookshank were elected officers in the newly formed Progressive Republican league of Orange county.

The city was excited greatly over a morning flight of Glenn Martin, aviator, who made a trip over Santa Ana at the most unusual altitude of 3000 feet.

Best growers were to have a meeting at Artesia. Delegates from many surrounding towns were to be in attendance. A petition for a bond election in support of new waterworks improvements at Orange was approved.

Several advertisements to the effect that vacuum cleaning would be done by a certain firm for 75 cents an hour were inserted in the Register.

A league was formed to boost the woman's suffrage amendment. E. M. Nealley, of Tustin, and W. B. Tedford were named as officers of the organization.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 4—THE STORY OF THE GRANDFATHER CLOCK

"Tick Tock, the Clock Fairy, gathered up all his tools and oil-can and key, and remarked that as Old Granddaddy was fixed all right and running as well as new, he and the Twins had better be going on to the next place. By this time Old Granddaddy was ticking away for dear life, and his kind old face shone until the moon on his forehead and the painted roses on his cheeks looked almost real.

"I'm so grateful," he said, "that I feel like doing something for you. Won't my master and mistress be surprised when they come down in the morning and find me as frisky as a young colt. I think that clocks are something like flowers. They know when people love them. What can I do for you, my dears?" Would you like to hear a story?"

"Oh, yes! We'd love it," said the Twins quickly. "Have we time, Tick Tock?"

"Yes, if it doesn't take too long," said the little clock fairy. "It won't take long to tell it."

"I was made in Kingston, Rhode Island," he began, "by a clock-maker called Claggett. He was a very fine clock-maker and sold his clocks for a high price. I was bought by a man who lived near Boston."

"It was when the colonies were still colonies, before the Revolutionary war, and I was delivered by post-express, and carried over rough roads in an express coach drawn by four horses. And, although I was snugly wrapped in old quilts and a great deal of straw, when I reached my destination there was almost no life left in me. Traveling was traveling in those days, my dears."

"But at last I was unpacked and set up in state in my new home. It was a lovely white house with green shutters and elm trees in the front yard. I was a wedding present to the young couple who lived there. I don't know who was happier, the bride and groom, or myself.

"But alas! The war began. Word came that British soldiers had landed and my young master had to buckle on his sword and march away.

"But my young mistress was as brave as he. Not a tear did she shed. She spent her time knitting socks and warm jackets for the American soldiers.

"One day a neighbor rushed in and told my mistress that the Red Coats were coming. They were coming into all the houses and making themselves at home, she added. 'If you have anything to hide, you'd better do it at once. One never can tell what may happen.'

"Wait and help me," said my mistress quickly. "There are valuable papers as well as silver and pewter and jewels that I must hide. I'll put them into the new clock and lock it."

"Soldiers always look in clocks," said the neighbor.

"Then we'll tie a rope around the clock and lower it into the old well," said my mistress.

"When the soldiers came not a thing of value did they find, but a good hot meal which my mistress thought it wise to cook for them. All the time I was hanging by my poor neck down the old well, with branches and logs piled over the top to hide the place.

"The next day my mistress left, thinking it safer to stay with her mother until the war was over. And there I hung for four years. I was rescued at last, but I've been full of rheumatism ever since."

"No wonder you have rheumatism, poor dear," said Nancy. (To be continued.)
